COURTHOUSE SQUARE SHAPES UP

A handsome minipark of contrasting textures blooms in downtown San Rafael as workmen lay paving tiles to form a plaza fronting dual office buildings and a parking garage on Courthouse Square. Landscaping of the square with tiles, shade trees and shrubs will cost about $80,000, and will be completed by the end of this month, according to Arthur Swisher, director of construction for developer McKeon Construction of Sacramento.

A 'Bombshell' Watergate Memo Bared

Shows Burglars Knew Their Silence Bought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecution in the Watergate cover-up trial today disclosed a long lost memo it said showed the seven original burglars knew they were being paid for their silence and expected to be pardoned by the Nixon administration in return.

Prosecutor James F. Neal told the cover-up trial of five former aides to Richard M. Nixon that the new evidence — a "bombshell" memo written by bugging conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. on Nov. 11, 1972 — was surrendered Saturday by attorney William O. Bittman.

Bittman, Hunt's former counsel and an unindicated co-conspirator in the cover-up plot, repeatedly denied the existence of the memo over the past two years. Hunt admitted to it only recently.

Neal made the disclosure, which he described as a "sad chapter" in the cover-up plot, before former Nixon campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder resumed his testimony.

"Half measures will be unacceptable," the Hunt memo said. "This should not be misinterpreted as a threat but a reminder that loyalty should always be a two-way street."

"The defendants have followed all instructions meticulously and are maintaining their part of the bargain," Hunt said in the memo. "The administration, however, remains deficient...."

It said the White House had not met its "commitments" which included "1. financial support ... 2. legal defense fees ... 3. pardons ... 4. rehabilitation."

Ford Makes Plea For Big Turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today warned eligible voters that by failing to cast ballots in tomorrow's election they will be "actually voting 'no' on our system of self government."

In a statement delivered in the White House Rose Garden, Ford said that some surveys predict a turnout of only 40 per cent of the voting population.

"If this is true," he said, "the Congress with which I must work here in Washington to control inflation, strengthen the economy and preserve peace in the world could be elected by only 21 per cent of the voters.

"I don't think anyone wants that kind of minority decision. So I ask you, my fellow Americans, to make the time tomorrow to go to the polls and vote for the candidates of your choice.

"You will be voting for your future and exercising the power vested in a free people which has carried this country forward for nearly 200 years."

Ford completed his last campaign swing through the West Saturday in an effort to boost the candidacies of Republicans. Ford's chief of staff said the President thought his trips were worthwhile and helped the GOP despite indications that the Democrats might make major gains in the election.

In his message today, Ford said the public would not just be voting for Democrats or Republicans.

"You will be casting your vote of confidence in the United States of America," he said.

"Those who vote — whether they vote for Republican or Democratic candidates or for others — will be voting "yes"for our American tradition of government by the people and for the people.

"Everyone who can get to the polls and fails to go, who refuses to exercise the precious right of a free citizen to vote his or her honest conviction, is actually voting 'no' on our system of self government."

Ford's final swing through the West was designed to aid some candidates who were considered to be running behind.

Heavy Security Around Kissinger

ROME (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, hopping between petroleum and Middle East peace talks, flew to Rome today to keynote a conference convened at his urging on how to feed the world. There were unusually heavy security precautions.

The Communist party and other left-wing groups have threatened major demonstrations to protest Kissinger's alleged interference in Italian domestic affairs, and police reportedly received telephoned threats that bombs would explode at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci airport.

There has been a rash of bombings over the past three days against American firms in Rome and today a bomb exploded in front of the Rome Daily American, causing heavy damage but no injuries.

Kissinger, who will spend only 24 hours in Rome, had meetings with Italian President Giovanni Leone, Pope Paul VI and members of a caretaker government in Italy before his address tomorrow to more than 1,000 delegates to the U.N. World Food Conference.

The conference had been summoned at Kissinger's request to resolve the problem of how to better feed a world in which one quarter of the population goes to bed hungry every night. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz indicated today in Brussels that the United State would propose a new world food agency to include Russia and the oilproducing nations.

Kissinger spent the night in Bucharest, Romania and flew today to Belgrade for talks with Yugoslav President Tito. While in Belgrade he appealed to the Arab and Israeli governments to make an effort to bring their position closer to each other in the interests of achieving a Middle East peace agreement.

While Kissinger and Tito acknowledged that they spent a lot of time discussing the Middle East, the secretary of state's visit to Belgrade also was carefully designed to bolster Yugoslavia's independent position on the edge of Eastern Europe.

Kissinger was also trying to spruce up U.S.-Yugoslav relations which are basically good, but which have been troubled recently by Tito's charges that the CIA fomented the coup in

FORD GIVEN RARE CRYSTAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists today gave President Ford a speck of space grown crystal which will allow computers to be reduced to a tenth of their present size.

Ford accepted the indiumantimonide crystal from board chairman Howard Johnson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, NASA administrator James C. Fletcher and NASA deputy administrator George M. Low.

Fletcher said the crystal, grown aboard the Skylab Station in January, can be the start of a new $1 billion to $2 billion industry.

Tomorrow's Election May Draw Good Marin Turnout

The cacophony of 1974's long campaign season, which tried to interest a citizenry widely disenchanted by politics, ends tomorrow when voters go to the polls.

A turnout of some 87,000 Marin voters was predicted by the county's elections officer, Peter C. Meyer, who estimated 73 per cent of the 119,583 registered would vote. The turnout in the June primary in Marin was just under 62 per cent.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Meyer said the computer tally of ballots should be complete between 11:30 p.m. and midnight. The first indication of the vote will come about 8:30 p.m. with the count of absentee ballots. Further counts will be issued every half-hour.

Radio station KTIM-FM, 100.9 on the dial, will broadcast the half-hourly returns live from the Civic Center from 9 p.m. until the outcome of the races is clear.

A list of 66 candidates, 17 state propositions and nine local measures will be on the Marin ballot. Only 20 of the candidates are incumbents, half of them unopposed justices.

The statewide contests are for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, attorney general and U.S. Senate. Incumbent justices on the state Supreme Court also are on the ballot, but are uncontested.

Voters in both Marin and Southern Sonoma will ballot in the state Board of Equalization's Third District, Second Senatorial District and First District Appellate Court.

In Marin, voters also will decide contests in the Fifth Congressional District, Ninth Assembly District, Marin Municipal Water District's Division 1, Marin Hospital District and Strawberry Recreation District, and for Sausalito City Council and county clerk.

Local Marin measures, detailed below, will be on the ballots in the San Rafael area, Loma Verde, Novato and Mill Valley School District. It will take 24 ballot styles to accommodate all the contests in Marin's various jurisdictions.

Democratic registration in Marin is 61,900, compared to 45,551 Republicans. Other counts are: declined to state a party preference, 11,346; Peace and Freedom, 609; American Independent, 127, and miscellaneous, 50.

Southern Sonoma voters will ballot among candidates in the First Congressional District, Petaluma Hospital District and Second Supervisorial District. Local measures are: Measure B to approve the county's share of Warm Springs Dam; Measure C, an $825,000 bond issue in Cotati to upgrade water facilities; Measure D, a $2.2 million bond issue in Petaluma for parks; Measure K to add $200 to Petaluma High School District's spending per pupil, and Measure L, to add $45 to the Petaluma elementary district's spending per elementary pupil.

Local Marin measures are:

MEASURE A — Forms a county service area in unincorporated territory around the City of San Rafael to finance structural fire protection.

MEASURE B —Sets a property tax rate for the county service area formed if Measure A passes at 71 cents per $100 assessed valuation, 24 cents more than the levy now paid by residents of the area for county fire protection.

MEASURE C — A $350,000

Clashes Are Averted In Protests At U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Jewish and Arab organizations today demonstrated in front of the United Nations within four blocks of each other but heavy security forces prevented any confrontation between the partisan groups.

New York police stepped up foot patrols and erected double sets of wooden barricades outside the U.N. building. U.N. security officers closed the main U.N. building to the public and the number of security men was increased for the day.

A few blocks away, at First Avenue and 43rd Street, the smaller pro-Arab Action Committee for American-Arab Relations gathered to welcome the Arab delegation.

Organizers of the Jewish protest said they expected the crowd to swell to at least 50,000 demonstrators.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Cousins Guilty In Opry Slaying

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Two cousins have been convicted and sentenced to long prison terms for the slayings of the Grand Ole Opry star David (Stringbean) Akeman and his wife.

M. Brown

John A. Brown and Marvin Douglas Brown were found guilty on two counts each of first-degree murder Saturday night and sentenced to two 99-year terms, to run consecutively.

The nine-man, three-woman jury had recommended the sentences run concurrently, but Judge Allen Cornelius imposed the consecutive sentences so the pair would not be eligible for parole for 30 years.

The Akemans were shot to death Nov. 10, 1973, after surprising burglars at their modest home in rural Davidson County. They had just returned from a performance at the Grand Ole Opry House.

J. Brown

The jury took two and a half hours to find the cousins guilty.

Testimony in the six-day trial indicated that John A. Brown had told several persons he shot the Akemans.

Weight Clinics

CHICAGO (UPI) — A report in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association urged a legal crackdown on weight reducing clinics using injections of a hormone extracted from urine of pregnant women.

The journal report said the attorney general of Michigan has ruled "fat clinics" using the injections are "in violation of Michigan's medical practice act."

"We hope that other states will interpret their medical practice acts similarly," the journal said.

The hormone is called HCG, and was first used for reducing purposes more than 20 years ago, the report said.

Seventh Suspect

CHICAGO (UPI) — A seventh suspect with a long criminal record is being investigated in connection with the $4.3 million burglary of a vault at the Armored Express Co. two weeks ago — the biggest heist in U.S. history.

State and federal agents believe the previous arrests of six men in the spectacular scheme prevented a series of other major burglaries, including a million-dollar stock theft in New York.

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission, said last night that Allen Wainer, 69, a longtime Chicago criminal figure, has been under surveillance by his agents.

Tight Security

ROME (UPI) — Anti-terrorist police threw a security net around Rome's airports today for the arrival of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other international figures attending the U.N. World Food Conference.

Communists and other left-wing groups have called for demonstrations against Kissinger's alleged intervention in Italian domestic politics and there were fears these demonstrations could lead to violence.

The conference, which U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim will open tomorrow, will draw together ministers from more than 100 countries including China and the Soviet Union. Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat also will attend.

Easy Election

TUNIS (UPI) — President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia has been reelected for a fifth term by 99.98 per cent of the vote on a one-candidate ballot.

Interior Minister Tahar Belkhodja said 1,573,291 citizens cast ballots yesterday out of an electorate of 1,623,743. Out of a total of 1,571,215 valid votes, 1,570,594 or 99.98 per cent opted for Bourguiba, the only candidate.

The election may be Bourguiba's last because parliament will soon vote on a constitutional amendment proposed by the country's only political party making the 71-year-old Bourguiba president for life.

Assassination Plot

NEW YORK (UPI) — A former refugee leader who returned to Havana says anti-Castro forces plan to assassinate Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and American congressmen to block U.S. rapprochement with Cuba.

Carlos Rivero Collado said in Havana the anti-Castro movement in the United States also wants to kill the Costa Rican foreign minister.

Rivero returned to Havana from Miami last week because he said he was disillusioned with the anti-Castro cause and believed the government of Premier Fidel Castro was invincible.

New Thieu Trouble

SAIGON (UPI) — A police raid in a small South Vietnamese village touched off a new crisis today for the troubled regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

An opposition senator accused police of killing three persons and wounding 10 others at an anti-Thieu protest in the village, but government officials insisted the shooting involved a search for draft dodgers.

Sen. Doan Van Luong said he received reports of police opening fire on anti-Thieu protesters last Saturday during a meeting in the village of Chinh Tam, 70 miles east of Saigon.

Strikes Spread

PARIS (UPI) — Strikes that have already disrupted mail and telegram service spread today to French railways, gas, electricity, television and heating fuel.

Some 15,000 deliverers of home fuel in Paris shut their doors to protest fuel rationing which has cut their sales 20 per cent.

Railway unions said rail service to central France will be disrupted by two and three-day walkouts beginning tomorrow to support wage demands.

A strike by Paris post office workers which has played havoc with telephone communications went into its third week.

Talks Break Off In Coal Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coal negotiations broke off last night and a bloc of union delegates who must approve a new contract voted unanimously to go home and prepare for a nationwide strike.

While the top bargaining people on both sides of the table said it was possible to avert a strike, United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said the outlook was "pretty glum."

But when asked if a strike was inevitable, as the union secretary-treasurer Harry Patrick indicated, Miller said "That wouldn't be true."

A prolonged national coal strike would be a serious blow to the nation's already shaky economy and even a brief shutdown could boost inflation by crippling industrial production.

Guy Farmer, general counsel and chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said "I still think we have a chance of averting a strike."

But chances for an early settlement appeared dim despite the stated optimism.

White House labor troubleshooter William J. Usery Jr. was in touch with both sides and said he would attempt to get them talking again.

The strike deadline is a week away —12:01 a.m., Nov. 12.

The union, which represents 120,000 miners in 25 states, has a "no contract, no work" tradition and under Miller's leadership has adopted a ratification process that requires secret balloting by each member.

The ratification process also requires approval by the union's bargaining council, the presidents of 19 local districts and the union's executive board.

After talks broke off at a Washington hotel, Miller walked a block to union headquarters and briefed the bargaining council. It voted unanimously to go home.

Afterwards, Miller said he still thought there was a chance to avert a strike. "I would meet if there was anything to meet on," he said.

The coal association said in a statement: "In the hope of reaching an agreement before time runs out we are willing to continue to negotiate around the clock."

ARNOLD MILLER
Says outlook 'glum'

While the two sides appeared to be very close on a new contract before the breakdown, according to sources close to the talks, the bargaining broke off on proredures.

The union accused coal negotiators of not responding to revised economic demands presented Saturday morning. The operators apparently wanted to wind up bargaining on the noneconomic issues, including grievance procedures, viewed as a means of avoiding wildcat strikes.

"We will be getting back together," Farmer said. "We've made a great deal of progress. We were shooting for trying to get it settled today but that was just not humanly possible."

The union revised its economic demands and presented them Friday, but union spokesmen said the company negotiators said "no."

"We tried to compromise," the union official said. "We came back with a new proposal." He said that was offered Saturday morning and since that time the operators "won't even give us an answer."

Miller said there still were "four or five" significant noneconomic issues. "Most of the other items are just a matter of changing words," he said.

"I don't think they're far apart on the issues," said a spokesman for the company negotiators.

Talks began Sept. 3. The company negotiators have been pressing issues that would improve coal mine productivity.

Hotel Fire Deaths Lead To Arrests

SEOUL (UPI) — A survivor accused the owner of a blazing go-go club today of blocking the exit to collect bills from terrified patrons trying to flee a fire that killed 88 persons.

Police arrested Kim Ho-jin, 42, owner of the building, and Kim Hak-in, 31, who rented most of the sixth floor for a hotel, on charges of causing a fire by negligence. The owner also was being questioned with four employees about reports they blocked the only exit for 10 minutes to make sure all bills were paid.

Kim Hi-ja, 22, one of the first to dash out of the club, told police she "ran toward the door as soon as I heard a shout of fire.

"Club workers blocked the way asking for money for the bills," she said. "There was a stampede toward the door but the workers were standing in the way. The entrance was blocked."

The blaze at Seoul's Daewang office building and hotel complex early yesterday killed 88 persons, 65 of them in the jammed Time night club. About 40 others were injured.

The fire was touched off by a short-circuit in a hotel corridor light on the sixth floor of the seven-story building and spread along the ceiling to the nightclub.

Police said all 65 bodies found in the club were near the narrow entrance. The victims were among some 200 persons enjoying a weekend go-go dancing session.

The South Korean government fired the area's police chief and the head of the local public health office for failing to supervising nightspots adequately.

Police also ordered investigations of an electrician and six other building officials for possible negligence.

Many of the victims were burned beyond recognition. About half of the dead have yet to be identified, police said.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Remember, here the customer is always right on."

Stress May Have Caused Nixon's Ills

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Richard Nixon's mental state, the tension of the Watergate struggle and the humiliation of his fall from power to disgrace, may well have brought on his medical crisis.

Specialists in the subject unanimously gave much the same answer to a UPI survey —although all added the qualification that they could make no firm diagnosis by long distance.

Nixon has had phlebitis for almost 10 years, but it was not until the end of his presidency became imminent, in June, that he started to limp.

After his eviction from the White House, facing the ordeal of an appearance on the witness stand at the Watergate cover-up trial, Nixon's health began to deteriorate rapidly.

Nixon had been unusually healthy for his age while in office, but within 47 days of resignation and retirement to a morose self exile in San Clemente, he was hospitalized.

"Stress can cause a variety of medical problems," said Dr. Hans Selye of the University of Montreal, described as one of the world's leading experts on the links between emotional trauma and medical ills.

Nixon Taken Off Hospital Critical List

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Richard Nixon's health was better today than it has been since his medical crisis began a week ago, and doctors say he is no longer in critical condition.

Nixon, bouyed by a surprise weekend visit from President Ford, was taken off the critical list yesterday, allowed to eat soft foods and sit up.

His doctor called it "the most encouraging report" since Nixon entered Long Beach Memorial Hospital 12 days ago, and underwent urgent surgery last Tuesday morning.

The 61-year-old former president "is now off the critical list," said an announcement by Dr. John Lungren, his chief physician. Nixon "is now under subintensive care," Lungren said.

Connie B. Hamilton, head of the critical care nursing staff, said that translates to "serious condition" by the system used at most other hospitals.

She said that at the present rate of Nixon's recovery, he might be upgraded to "intermediate care" in a day or two.

It was last Monday that Nixon's doctors became alarmed at the spread of blood clots from his phlebitis-diseased left leg higher into his body. A plastic clip was placed across a vein in his left groin Tuesday morning. Six hours later Nixon went into shock, which Lungren later said brought the former president close to death.

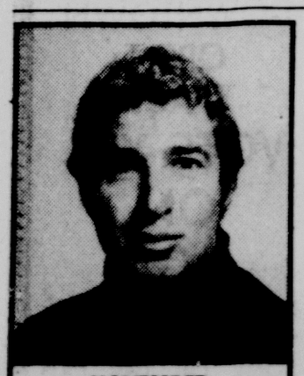

President Ford spent eight minutes with Nixon Saturday morning, sitting at his bedside, discussing Nixon's big interest, foreign policy, and giving him a farewell handclasp.

Lungren said the visit from Ford was "a therapeutic boost" for Nixon. Ford, campaigning in Southern California, went to the hospital only after Lungren okayed the visit, telling him to keep it short, and Mrs. Nixon said it would be a tonic for her ailing husband.

Is Medicare enough for you?

If you're 65 or more, that's a good question. We agree, Medicare is just about the best thing going for you. But, if you want a little back-up plan—we've got one. Two in fact: Our companion plans to Medicare.

Consider our Blue Cross/65 Regular Plan, introduced eight years ago and still available to you at $4.00 a month. And, when you also consider the fact that Medicare serves over 21 million subscribers today, it must have a cut-off point somewhere—and that point may be just when you need it most.

And that's why we've introduced our new Blue Cross/65 Extra Care. It costs a little more—because you may need a little more. Extra Care provides extra benefits for hospital, physician and medical care and even helps you to pay for prescription drugs. And, you know how that can add up.

If you're 65 or over, both of these plans are well worth looking into. We designed them for you. If you're concerned about Medicare costs, turn to us! Blue Cross/65 Regular or Extra Care. Fill out the coupon or just give us a call. We'll send you the facts and that's all. No one will call on you. Promise.

Blue Cross has two plans for you: Regular at $4.00 or Extra Care, which includes prescription drugs.

Author Jessamyn West looked out across the audience of gray heads filling the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater Saturday and told them:

"The thing is, you must not be afraid to try."

Though she spoke of writing, Miss West had struck the chord that resounded throughout Emeritus College's first birthday celebration which attracted some 600 older persons to the campus more noted for its jeans and sandals set.

Birthday cake and coffee came later. First were the greetings of old friends and salutes and praise from campus and college officials.

But it was the gray-haired students themselves who drew accolades from their fellow celebrants. Highlights were Anne Finnie's reading of her work, "Shady Rest, a Scene in a Nursing Home," bringing repeated laughter and empathy with the patient-heroine, and Tim Kelly's "The Case Against Grandma Moses," his experience as an older person attending a state college class. Both were written in the Emeritus College writing-from-experience workshop and dealt with the way older persons are treated in today's America.

Miss West, questioned by a panel, admitted that all of her books had been published after she had reached 40.

The author of "Friendly Persuasion" and a host of other novels, stories and poems, she said she had once feared to write for possible publication.

An insatiable reader, Miss West said she began writing during the 12 years she spent resting to overcome tuberculosis.

But I was afraid to send anything out. But I had a husband who nagged and nagged me. Finally, I said to him, 'I will write 12 stories, send each to a different magazine and they will all turn me down. Then will you be satisfied?'

"Well, one was taken and I was a writer," she said.

"My advice? You must not try to be judge, jury and criminal. Just be the criminal, commit it to paper and send it off to an editor.

"You cannot forgive yourself for lacking the courage to try," she stated.

Celebration of the first year, in which Emeritus increased from an original 81 students to the present 1,800, was geared to audience participation. And its founder, Barnard Carp evoked spirited singing from the audience on the choruses for his piano and vocal rendition of "Viva la Emeritus" — his suggestion for the school's song — and "These Are the Days," tracing the school year history with new words to familiar music.

James O. Sanders, Emeritus College director, introduced the program. Officials who delivered birthday greetings were Marin Community Colleges District board president Martin J. Dean, District Supt. John A. Grasham, College of Marin President Irwin P. Diamond and Patricia Challender, College of Marin Associated Students past president.

Panelists with Miss West were Clemmie Barry of Emeritus advisory council; Boris Ilyin, Emeritus faculty member; Maryjane Dunstan of the College of Marin faculty and Renee Heckman, student. Maurine Ballard of Emeritus was the moderator.

Sign Ordinance Delay On Agenda

A moratorium on enforcing the city sign ordinance in certain redevelopment areas of the city will be considered at 7:45 p.m. today by the San Rafael City Council.

City businessmen have argued that they should be exempted from sign restrictions until the redevelopment sign guidelines are established.

In other business, the council will consider a 14 per cent increase in city business license fees proposed in July by city administration. Decision on the rate hike has been postponed since then, at the request of the city chamber of commerce.

A request by owners of the Red Rock Quarry for a permit to build a home on the hillside of 86 Twin Oaks Avenue will also be considered by the council. Owners of the quarry wrote in a memo to city officials that if the permit is granted, and if they are allowed to move existing barricades on Quarry Road, they will waive their right to quarry.

City officials have opposed moving the barricades and allowing the hillside construction, and have recommended that the council reject the owners proposal.

The council also will establish the duties and salary schedule of the new full-time city attorney. A starting salary of $25,000, with yearly $1,000 raises in the next three years has benn proposed by City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

The meeting will be preceded by a closed session at 7:30 p.m., in which the council will discuss property acquisition by the city.

A staff report on a "code of ethics" for city employees focusing on economic conflict of interest has not been completed, and discussion of that has been postponed until the Nov. 18 council meeting, Bielser said.

Rebozo Defends Nixon Language

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)— C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo, close friend of Richard M. Nixon, says he never heard the former president utter a "bad word" regardless of the language revealed in some of the White House tapes.

"I never heard him use a bad word. He is not a man to swear," Rebozo told a reporter from the Philadelphia Bulletin in Miami. The interview was published in yesterday's Bulletin.

"I guess he just got to the point where he ... well, I guess it's better than ramming your fist through the wall. The pressure just got to be too much. The language was all brand new with him since Watergate," Rebozo told the newspaper.

OVER 30 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN NUTRITION

NATURE'S SUNSHINE SUBSTITUTE

As sunshine gets scarcer these days, nutritionists remind us it's Cod Liver Oil time. Don't worry about the taste. In capsule form, you'll never know you swallowed the whole thing! And benefits are the greatest, say authorities.

Cod Liver Oil is prescribed for growing children to help teeth and bones develop properly. As we get older, vitamin D in it is needed to help us utilize minerals. There are other blessings in small portions of Cod Liver Oil, including vitamin A. But you'll be wise to select only very fresh, natural fish liver oil, rather than a synthetic substitute. We'll gladly help you find the best.

Cyprus which ousted President Makarios.

Kissinger announced he would visit Ankara next week where he hoped to patch up strained U.S.-Turkish relations and perhaps move towards a settlement of the Cyprus crisis.

Hundreds of special police ringed Rome's Ciampino airport for Kissinger's arrival and the secretary of state drove into Rome in a special bullet-proof car for a meeting and supper with President Giovanni Leone and members of Italy's caretaker government.

Kissinger and his wife Nancy were met by Premier-Designate and former Foreign Minister Aldo Moro, U.S. Ambassador John Volpe and President Ford's special envoy to the Vatican, Henry Cabot Lodge.

A joint communique issued at the end of the Belgrade visit said Kissinger had presented Tito with a message from President Ford but did not disclose its contents.

The communique referred to the "active contribution to international understanding" made by Yugoslavia's policy of nonalignment, picking up one of the main themes of Kissinger's speech in New Delhi last week.

The New Delhi speech which affirmed the United States' positive attitude toward nonalignment was described by Yugoslav news media as a significant change in U.S. foreign policy. But U.S. officials said it had merely clarified the existing policy and Kissinger's visit to Belgrade had been helpful for clearing up such misunderstandings.

"The two sides... affirmed the importance of continued regular contacts and consultations at all levels in various fields of mutual interest, and stressed the benefit these provide to increased understanding and mutual respect for one another's viewpoints and positions," the statement said.

Barbara C. Black, 29, his wife, who suffered broken ribs, was taken to Novato General Hospital where she was reported in good condition today.

Black told police he was forced to leave the roadway when a truck cab driven by Mark Warren Murdock, 21, of 206 San Rafael Avenue, San Rafael, changed lanes.

from the PLO, the umbrella organization for most Palestinian guerrilla groups.

U.N. debate on the Palestinian question originally scheduled for today was postponed until next week.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who has pushed legislation to ease the emigration of Soviet Jews, was greeted by prolonged applause.

He told the crowd that the PLO was "a murderous band which represents no one but itself."

As the crowd, many of whom arrived in chartered buses from the suburbs, waved banners calling for "an end to terrorist murders," Jackson said, "There will be no peace in the Mideast if the U.N. sells out to thugs and murderers."

Police Commissioner Michael J. Codd was on hand to direct the unspecified number of plainclothes and uniformed officers on hand to prevent any recurrence of violence.

TRIAL

ants had engaged in "highly illegal conspiracies" prior to the Watergate bugging on orders of "senior officials at the White House" and demanded that commitments to aid them be met no later than Nov. 27, 1972.

The memo apparently hurt the defense of cover-up defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, whose attorney immediately moved for a mistrial. Hunt testified earlier that Bittman read it to Parkinson shortly after it was written.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica denied a motion by John J. Wilson, attorney for cover-up defendant H. R. Haldeman, for a mistrial. But he did not rule immediately the mistrial motion by Jacob A. Stein, attorney for Parkinson.

The Hunt memo, unsigned and entitled simply "review and statement of problem," said the original conspirators bugged the Democratic party headquarters against their better judgment and added:

"If initial orders to bug DNC headquarters were ill-advised, the defendants' sponsors compounded the fiasco by the following acts."

Among these acts, it said, was "permitting defendants to fall into the hands of a paranoid judge and three self-admitted Democrat prosecutors."

This was in apparent reference to Sirica and the three assistant U.S. attorneys who ran the initial investigation — Earl Silbert, Seymour Glanzer and Donald Campbell.

The seven "have grown increasingly to feel that they are being offered up as scapegoats ultimately to be abandoned," it said.

It said further that John N. Mitchell, the former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager now on trial, "may well have perjured himself" in a sworn deposition in a Watergate-related civil suit.

Hunt had denied the existence of such a memo until two weeks ago — just before he testified in the cover-up trial. He testified he finally decided to tell the truth because the men he was protecting "are no longer worthy of my loyalty."

Stein described the situation as "a cover-up within a cover-up" that badly hurts his defense of Parkinson since he had relied heavily on the fact that the document apparently did not exist.

By PAUL LIBERATORE

"Our lives shall not be sweated from birth until life closes, hearts starve as well as bodies, give us bread, but give us roses." — 1940s Women's Liberation Song

The professional performer between gigs and the shut-in confined by the blank walls of an institution have at least one thing in common: too many empty hours.

Singer-musician Mimi Farina wants to fill them.

In a tiny upstairs office on Lytton Square, not far from her Mill Valley home, she is beginning a project that has lain dormant in her dreams for two years — The Bread and Roses Benefit Agency.

MIMI FARINA
Let's get together

Its purpose is to organize entertainment for prisons, hospitals, convalescent homes, juvenile facilities, drug treatment centers and other institutions. Stated another way, to bring a little joy to those with otherwise drab existences.

"The idea, though, was inspired as much out of concern for performers as for people whose environment is limited," she said last week. "A few years ago, I had a conversation with a cousin of mine about how hard it is to hang out with musicians. It seems the only things they're interested in is music and dope. There's a great lack of interest in the community around them. My cousin suggested I do something about it."

But Mimi Farina wasn't ready then to do something about it. There was still her career to think of, making records, gaining fame. Then two things happened.

First, she produced a benefit concert to raise money for a Vietnam Veterans March on Washington last summer. Performers at the Berkeley Community Theater show included Jackson Browne, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, The Committee and Danny O'Keefe.

"It really gave me a kick in the pants. It proved I had some organizational ability."

Next she became a casualty of the shortage in vinyl, the stuff used to make records. Executives at A&M records classed her as "a marginal act" and she was soon released from the label. "It was humiliating and absolutely degrading. My little psyche couldn't take it. I got tired of trying to sell myself . . . I kept telling myself that after the next album I would have a little money to get the agency together. Then it dawned on me that I may not have another album."

A veteran performer with four records to her credit — three with her late husband Richard Farina and one with Tom Jans — Mimi Farina in her 29 years has experienced the exhilaration and the letdowns associated with the music business, the applause and adulation that are paid for with long stints on the road, lonely motel rooms and the emptiness between shows.

"Bread and Roses will be a phone number and an office for the entertainer who wants to fill some of that empty gap," she explained.

So, with financial backing from sister Joan Baez, Gordon Lightfoot, Hoyt Axton, Tom Fogarty, Judy Collins and Bob Somer, the idea is taking shape.

There already have been informal shows at Marin Community Mental Health Center, the Psychiatric Day Care Center of Marin, Linda Vista Convalescent Home and Center Point, a drug treatment facility in San Rafael.

Staff members include Janis Labao, Lucie Alexander, Melita Figueroa, Jeffree Cain and Tissa Eddy. On the board of directors are Sali Lieberman, Christopher Jones and Tom Silk.

The agency has applied for non-profit tax exempt corporate status and until that is received donations designated for Bread And Roses may be sent to the AGAPE Foundation, Box 6749, Stanford University, 94305.

The office at 78 Throckmorton Avenue needs a clock, small couch, rug, bulletin board and assorted office supplies. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Although there have been only a few Bread And Roses performances so far, the people involved have learned a lot. "For example," explained Ms. Farina, "we now have an idea about the kind of things old people are into. At the Linda Vista Convalescent Hospital we ended up singing Baptist hymns . . laughter and music have been the things everyone wants."

Bread and Roses, she says, is not a replacement for her career as a performer, but a supplement to it. She will be on the road this month, touring Canadian and Eastern U.S. cities. And she still wants to record. But there are more important things than making it in music, she says.

"I was raised a Quaker and I believe the Quaker saying that there is good in every man. All it takes is to organize the good. There is so much time spent organizing man's evil character to the diminishment of the world. There is the other half to be worked with."

Cash, Checks Taken From Liquor Store

Someone broke into Warden's Liquors, 878 Grant Avenue, Novato, during the weekend and took about $1,000 in cash and checks, according to Novato police.

Officers said the store was entered between 11 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. yesterday after someone broke a rear door window.

Burglars Hit Petaluma Shop

More than $6,000 worth of coins, stamps and jewelry were taken over the weekend from Milt's Coin and Gift Shop at 49 Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma city police said today.

Owner Milton Whitt reported he discovered the theft at about 8:30 a.m. yesterday when he noticed the front door had been pried open.

Besides the collector's items, the thieves also took towels, books, a brief case and several watches, the owner told police.

Lost Circus Troupe Is Found In England

LONDON (UPI) — The case of the vanishing circus ended today when five truckloads of performing animals, jugglers and assorted performers turned up in the university town of Cambridge.

But they should have been in the university town of Oxford, where the big top had already been set up, and clowns and elephants grew impatient.

The Hoffman Circus convoy became separated during the weekend when transport manager Peter Mack was kicked in the head by a mule and had to spend a night in hospital.

In the absence of the transport manager, the five-truck caravan went astray from the main body of the circus on the 56-mile drive from London to Oxford for the next scheduled performance.

The missing troupe included a ringmaster, his wife and son, French jugglers and trick cyclists, two elephants, two camels, six llamas, one donkey, two mules, six Shetland ponies, two Palomino horses and a bison.

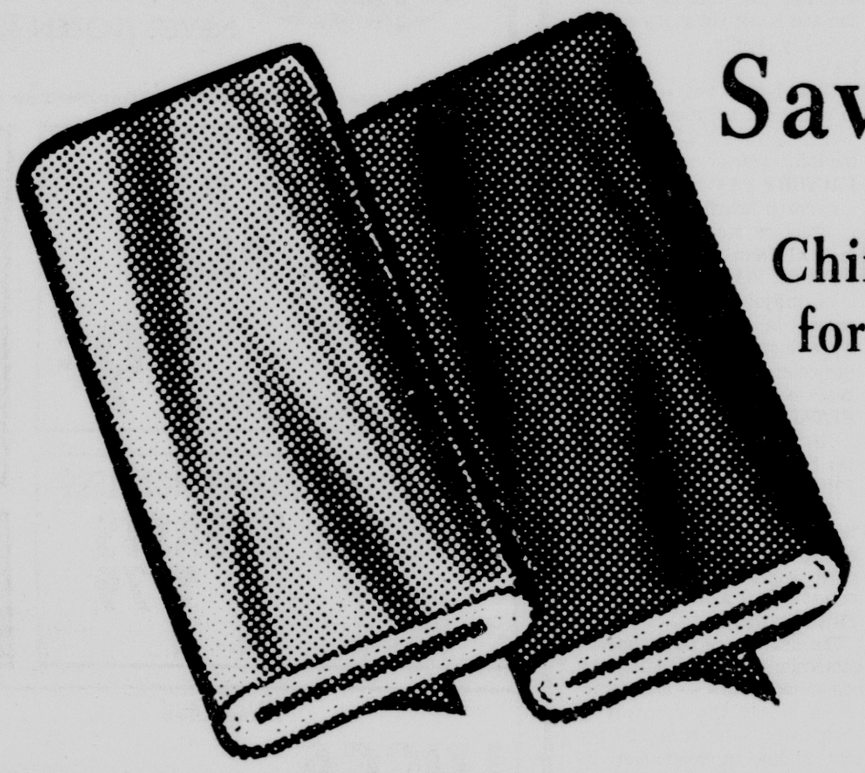

A rather long missing persons and animals report was flashed throughout the south of England, and by midday the caravan was found at Cambridge—about 80 miles off the mark.

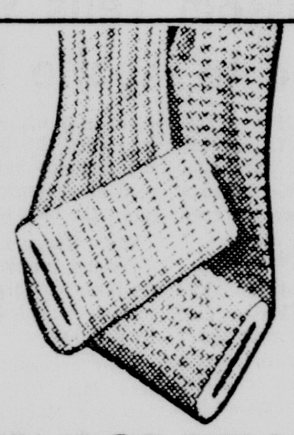

"We are relieved that the animals have been found," Mack said. "They are in the winter quarters of a small circus. We are very grateful to the police and press for their help. Our show in Oxford will now definitely go on on Thursday."

Major Economic Statistics Show Distressed U.S.

A Box Score Of Indicators Point To Inflation, Recession

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All the major economic statistics point to a United States tortured by inflation and recession.

These statistics are issued separately. Putting them together helps show a full picture of how the economy is progressing.

For that reason UPI presents a box score of the latest economic indicators.

PRICES:

The Consumer Price Index increased in September by 1.2 per cent. If sustained, this would translate into an annual increase in consumer prices of 14.4 per cent. In the first nine months of this year, prices rose more than they did in all of last year.

INFLATION:

Measured by a broad gauge — called the GNP "deflator," a measurement preferred by economists — inflation's pace was at an annual rate of 11.5 per cent during the July-September period of 1974.

WHOLESALE PRICES:

A partial harbinger of things to come, wholesale prices rose by one-tenth of 1 per cent in September, the smallest increase in 11 months and equivalent to to a 1.2 per cent annual rate. This was well below the 3.7 per cent annual rate recorded in August.

UNEMPLOYMENT:

Joblessness rose to 6 per cent in October, the highest in three years. The number of unemplozed persons looking for work reached 5.5 million out of a civilian work force of 92 million. In October of 1973, unemployment was 4.6 per cent.

OUTPUT:

The nation's "real" Gross National Product, a measure of the total output of goods and services adjusted to eliminate the distortions of inflation, declined in the third quarter of 1974 at an annual rate of 2.9 per cent. This was the third consecutive drop. One common definition of recession is a decline for two consecutive quarters in GNP.

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT:

Production of U.S. industries fell at an annual rate of three-tenths of 1 per cent in the third quarter. This compares with a rise of 1.9 per cent in the second quarter and a decline in the first quarter of 6.6 per cent.

PRODUCTIVITY:

Worker productivity — output per hour of work — fell at an annual rate of 3 per cent in the third quarter. This helped boost unit labor costs at an annual rate of 13.9 per cent. Productivity often declines at the start of a recession; there is not enough work to keep employees occupied full time, but the drop in demand is not yet sharp enough to justify layoffs.

PAY:

"Real hourly pay — adjusted to wring out inflation — fell at an annual rate of 2.3 per cent in the third quarter.

FACTORY PAY:

Average hourly pay of factory workers rose in September to $4.51 from $4.43 in August.

FUTURE WAGES:

In major labor contracts signed in the third quarter, wage increases averaged 11.3 per cent a year, up from 10 per cent in the previous quarter.

RETAIL SALES:

PROFITS:

A Wall Street Journal tabulation shows a 29.6 per cent increase in profits during the third quarter over the same period a year ago.

THE FUTURE:

The Commerce Department's composite index of leading economic indicators — a barometer of where the economy is likely to go — suffered a 2.5 per cent decline in September, its sharpest monthly drop in more than 23 years.

Mrs. Grissom Tells Why Sne Sued In Apollo Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The widow of astronaut Virgil (Gus) Grissom says in a book published today that she broke a code of silence when she sued the builder of the Apollo I in which her husband died.

Grissom, Edward H. White and Roger B. Chaffee died when a flash fire swept their cabin during a ground test a month before their scheduled launch on the first manned test of the moon ship.

A review board said the fire probably was caused by a spark from a damaged wire. The pure pressurized oxygen environment allowed the flames to engulf the cabin rapidly.

Betty Grissom says in "Starfell," written jointly with Henry Still, that she considered filing a damage suit after the 1967 spacecraft fire. But she said she continued to live by the "code of togethersville" until 1971.

"That code decreed — by the force of peer opinion — that you should accept your loss in silence, bear up, speak no evil, don't rock the boat, be noble and sacrifice your life to the good of government and military," the book says.

Mrs. Grissom sued North American Aviation, now part of the Rockwell Corp., and the suit was later settled out of court for $350,000.

After expenses and attorney fees, Mrs. Grissom said, her two sons, Mark and Scott, each received $75,000 and she got $60,000. The other two widows, who refused to join Mrs. Grissom in the suit, later received similar amounts.

Mrs. Grissom said she sued after the remaining astronauts signed a contract to share proceeds from a documentary film. The practice up to then was for all the spacemen and the widows of those killed in the program to share money received from such contracts.

She also received money from the documentary contract, but was informed in late 1970 that the astronauts had made a new agreement under which widows would cease to benefit as soon as their youngest child reached the age of 18. For Mrs. Grissom, that was 13 months away.

"I realized right then that the astronauts didn't give a damn about the widows," she said.

Shah To Visit

TEHRAN (UPI) — The Shah of Iran will visit the Soviet Union later this month for talks with Soviet leaders, the government news agency Pars said today.

ABRACADABRA — A sorceress (Joan Porter) casts a spell in "Mirror, Mirror, Off the Wall," a dance-drama which will be performed Nov. 23 and 30 at Dominican College.

Lyric Theater To Give Dance-Drama Nov. 23, 30

The Marin Lyric Dance Theater will present "Mirror, Mirror, Off the Wall," a dance-drama based on the saga of a sorceress and her lost image, Nov. 23 and 30 at Dominican College's Angelico Hall.

The work is set to the music of Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibiton." The musical score has been adapted by Bay Area composer Consuelo Melgar-Pye and also features some of her own compositions.

The production will include examples of Middle Eastern dance, Indian classical Kathak, Spanish, ballet and modern dance.

The dance theater is sponsored by the Sunshine Theater and has 20 dancers and musicians from the College of Marin, Dominican College and Ali Akbar College.

Carol Teten is director of the company. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees in dance and is a member of the Dominican faculty.

Performances will be at 2 and 8 p.m. both days.

College Plans Indian Film

"In the Land of the War Canoes," a film saga of Indian life on the northwest coast of America, will be shown at 8 p.m. Nov. 16 at Olney Hall, College of Marin.

The film is a reconstruction of film shot by Edward S. Curtis in the summer of 1914 at Kawakiutl Indian villages on Vancouver Island in Canada.

The movie has been stretched from silent speed to sound speed, and sound added with the aid of 50 Indian consultants who provided speaking parts, chants, singing and drumming. A donation of $2 for adults and $1.50 for students will be asked.

King Henry VIII Changed A Lot

LONDON (UPI) — As a young man, King Henry VIII of England was charming, pleasant and fun-loving. But when he died in 1547 at age 56, Henry was an unpredictable tyrant who killed off his wives and had hundreds of his subjects executed for no reason at all. His mind may have been affected by syphilis.

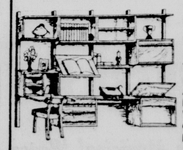

The theory is contained in one of 15 biographical essays collected by geneticist Arnold Sorsby from medical journals dating back 60 years and published in a new book, titled "Tenements of Clay."

Contributors to the collection diagnosed the physical problems of historical figures ranging from Noah (allegedly an albino) to William Shakespeare (who may have had writer's cramp) as well as Ludwig van Beethoven, Napolean Bonaparte and Jane Austen.

Children at Coleman School in San Rafael had this 100-foot mural to feast their eyes upon today. The project was directed by Arthur Grant, an art instructor in the extension service.

Soviet Jews Say Youths Are Persecuted By Draft

MOSCOW (UPI) — A group of 100 Soviet Jews accused Soviet authorities today of using the military draft to persecute young Jews who asked for permission to go to Israel.

The Jews signed an open letter to U.S. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., asking him to use his influence to get the alleged persecution stopped.

The letter was made available to Western correspondents.

The appeal spoke of Jackson's announcement in Washington last month that the Soviet Union had agreed to ease emigration in exchange for better trade status with the United States.

"The events of the recent days reject the assurance that the USSR really wishes to follow these principles," the appeal said.

"Particularly alarming are the increasing cases of drafting young Jews who have applied to go to Israel. This undoubtedly is used as a punitive measure against them and their families, the goal of which is to subject them to difficult conditions and for many years, deprive them of their hope to go to Israel."

The appeal specifically mentioned six Jews who have been drafted recently, including Nikita Kruzin-Buiko, 18.

EGUIDIO LAMBRETTI

RETIRES FROM McPHAIL'S

AFTER 34 YEARS OF SERVICE

EGUIDIO LAMBRETTI AS HE APPEARED YESTERDAY UPON HIS RETIREMENT, ENDING 34 YEARS OF SERVICE TO McPHAIL'S OF SAN RAFAEL.

Eguidio Lambretti retired from McPhail's, Inc. on October 31st, completing over 34 years of service. Lambretti, known by his friends as "Lamy" was born and raised in Mill Valley and began his employment at McPhail's on May 23rd, 1940 at their Ready-Mix plant that was built in 1935 on the Canal side of Francisco Boulevard.

He began driving a dump truck and soon was driving a Ford Cab-Over Chassis with a 3½ yard Yaeger Mixer, as compared to today's 9-10 yard mixer capacities.

Some of the first jobs he supplied Ready-Mix concrete to were: The Golden Gate Bridge; the overpass through San Rafael which was completed in 1942; the Waldo tunnel; Marinship in Sausalito; the Richardson Bay Bridge; and the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

It is estimated that during his years of service, "Lamy" has personally delivered over 130,000 cubic yards of Ready-Mix concrete. This startling figure represents over 26,000 loads of concrete and over 520,000,000 pounds of material.

To put it in perspective, it equals over four times the amount of concrete poured in the Fireman's Fund Computer Center, presently under construction just North of Terra Linda.

Lambretti has been a member in good standing with the Teamsters Union Local 624.

Barnstorms By Flournoy And Brown

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Houston I. Flournoy and Edmund Brown Jr. crisscrossed the state today in final campaign barnstorms to convince voters each is the man to govern California for the next four years.

Flournoy kicked off his final airborne swing at Sacramento while in San Diego, Democratic Brown 36, told about 65 supporters at a breakfast that "we cannot tolerate four more years of mediocrity" in the governor's office.

Brown chartered a 40-passenger airliner for the final campaign blitz while Flournoy used the remodeled "Grizzly," the onetime state-owned plane of former Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown which Gov. Ronald Reagan sold in 1967 as an unnecessary luxury.

Both planned separate appearances at the same cities — Sacramento, San Diego, San Francisco, Fresno, Burbank and Los Angeles.

Brown, still exuding confidence, committed himself as governor to improving the economy, continuing political "reform," upgrading educational excellence and improving environmental and energy planning.

Flournoy, relaxed and joking with newsmen, said he had always been a "stretch-runner" in his previous campaigns when the polls went against him and asserted that the Watergate scandals had "dulled and numbed some people's minds" but "I think there will be a darn good Republican vote" tomorrow.

River Fleets Offer Careers

By JOHN BUNKER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PINEY POINT, Md. — America's fast-growing river fleets are offering long-term, well-paying jobs for young men interested in outdoor-type careers.

Free training programs to prepare men for beginning jobs on river, harbor, and coastal towboats, plus upgraded courses for more skilled ratings, are being offered here by Harry Lundeberg School of Seamanship at the mouth of the Potomac River on Chesapeake Bay.

Operated by the Seafarers International Union (SIU) and its contracted steamship companies, this multimillion-dollar training facility has been turning out young men for jobs on seagoing vessels for several years.

The program was expanded last year to include recruiting and training for coastal and harbor tugs and towboats on the inland waters, where there is an especially big need for personnel.

This phase of the Lundeberg School program is sponsored by the Inland Boatmen's Union, an SIU affiliate, and its 91 contracted towboat companies.

About 300 beginners and advanced trainees have already completed the course.

Charles C. Mollard, national coordinator for the Inland Boatmen's Union, says that in the United States there are more than 60,000 men employed on harbor, coastal, Great Lakes, and river towboats and that this figure is expected to double within the next 20 years because of the increase in the movement of coal, oil, and other bulk commodities by river barges.

At the Lundeberg School towboat trainees receive a 12-week course in what is called the deckhand-tankerman's program. The course qualifies graduates to work on barges carrying general cargo, fuel, or bulk commodities.

Students learn first aid, knot-tying and general towboat know-how. On some river towboats a deckhand also does the cooking, so galley instruction is an important part of the course. A mock-up barge enables them to learn basic techniques of line handling.

The course also includes elementary diesel engine training, and instruction in dealing with the problems and hazards of fuel cargoes on a mock fuel barge.

A short course in firefighting is an important part of this program, including instruction in quelling real oil fires at a firefighting school operated by the U.S. Maritime Administration in Bayonne, N.J.

Graduates of this basic training program are placed in jobs by the school and can make $800 or more a month to start. It also is possible, says Mr. Mollard, for a young man to become captain of a tow boat within five years.

There are now 5,000 tugs operating on coastal, harbor, and inland waters and the number is constantly increasing.

Applicants for the course must be between 18 and 21 and can apply by writing to the Harry Lundeberg School, Piney Point, Md. 20674.

Petrocelli Has No Bad Feelings

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — Boston Red Sox third baseman Rico Petrocelli says he feels no bitterness toward a woman who accused him of molesting her on an airplane when she was a stewardess. The woman sued him for damages, but lost her case.

A six-member jury ruled unanimously Friday that former stewardess Susanne Mondlin, 28, of Nevada City, Calif., was not entitled to damages.

Mrs. Modlin had sued Petrocelli for $750,000 for injuries, mental anguish and humiliation which she charged she suffered when Petrocelli allegedly put his hands below her bust line during a chartered flight carrying the Red Sox team from Boston to Detroit on April 16, 1970.

Petrocelli, 31, said that he felt "no bitterness" toward the former stewardess. "I just wish her the best of luck for the rest of her life."

Program Slated On Detecting Diabetes Cases

Because diabetes is the leading cause of all new cases of blindness, the Marin County Optometric Society has joined the Northern California Diabetes Association in a month-long diabetes detection program in November, especially Nov. 17 through 23, which has been designated National Diabetes Week.

They will give out free diabetes diagnostic detection kits and information about diabetes. The diabetes association estimates that there are 4.4 million diabetics in the country and more than 1.6 million suffer from the disease and do not know it.

These kits have a sensitized strip which, after a home test, are sent to the Northern California Diabetes Association for clinical testing, said Dr. Charles McBane, president of the Marin County Optometric Society.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

J. D. Salinger's Story Complaint

NEW YORK (UPI) — J. D. Salinger, who wrote "The Catcher in the Rye" in 1951 but then went into seclusion, has complained in a rare newspaper interview that someone published his early short stories without his permission.

Salinger, in an interview in yesterday's New York Times, said, "Some stories, my property, have been stolen. Someone's appropriated them. It's an illicit act. It's unfair."

The stories in question were written between 1940 and 1948 and appeared in magazines such as the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's and Esquire.

But someone got old copies, published them in two volumes and distributed copies to bookstores in San Francisco, New York, Chicago and elsewhere, Salinger's lawyer told the Times.

Salinger spoke by telephone from his home in Cornish, N.H., to Times correspondent Lacy Fosburgh in San Francisco. The times said it was the first interview Salinger has granted since 1953.

GM To Stop Advertising On Handling; Test Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General Motors has agreed to stop advertising that its cars handle well unless it has competent scientific evidence to back up such claims, the Federal Trade Commission announced today.

The FTC said GM and its advertising agency, Campbell-Ewald Co., signed consent agreements growing out of an advertising campaign for the 1971 Chevrolet Vega.

The advertisement in question quoted Road and Track Magazine as saying that Vega "is beyond a doubt the best handling passenger ever built in the United States."

The FTC claimed GM could not prove the magazine made that statement.

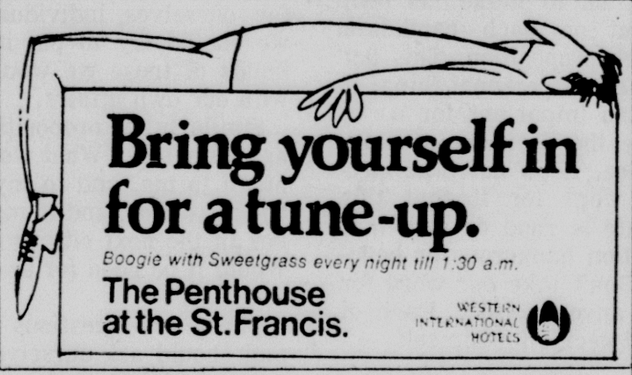

Under the order any future claim involving comparative handling of GM cars must be suported by scientific tests.

Specifically the tests must show how the car handles when emergency steering maneuvers are necessary, how the car takes corners at speeds above 30 miles an hour as well as how it performs in heavy cross winds, on rough roads and under other severe steering and braking conditions.

At the same time the commission announced it was dropping a complaint against another GM advertisement involving the 1971 model Opel 1900. The complaint alleged GM had no reasonable basis for claiming the car's chassis never needed lubrication.

In announcing the dismissal the FTC said GM had submitted information to it involving the lubrication claim. The advertising agency named in the Opel case, McCann-Erkison, was also dismissed.

ONLY ONE INCUMBENT CONGRESSMAN

FOLLOWING RELIABLE POLITICAL WEATHER VANES
JOHN L. BURTON

22 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

IN THE CASE of the congressman, the incumbency is very brief. John L. Burton was elected in a special election in June to fill out the term of Republican William S. Mailliard, who resigned.

Burton's opponent is Thomas Caylor, a fellow San Franciscan whose career has been largely in the import-export business but who also has been a newspaper columnist and active in San Francisco civic affairs.

Burton, who is 41, served 10 years in the state Assembly from a San Francisco district before making the race for Congress. In the Assembly, he was a leader of the so-called liberal wing. He has been active in anti-war demonstrations, in raising funds for Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers, and in the campaign to legalize marijuana, among other causes.

Burton's few months in Congress do not mean much in terms of incumbency advantage — especially since, with two very minor exceptions, his votes have been identical with those of his brother, Philip Burton, who represents the neighboring San Francisco district. "One man, one vote" should apply in Congress, too.

Caylor, who is 36, though without legislative experience, has been active in foreign affairs on numerous committees, is well versed in international trade, has been a director of the Constitutional Rights Foundation, and headed the San Francisco Economic Opportunity Council (OEO) for five years, which gave him insight from within on how government bureaucracies created by Congress actually work.

Thomas Caylor would bring a "new look" to Congress, and a new, understanding representation for Marin in Washington. He merits our vote.

A Question To Ask Ourselves As We Vote

Tomorrow, we'll go to the polls. Most of us will go, anyhow. All of us should.

When we get there, how well will we exercise our franchise?

There is a solemn finality about voting in the general election. When we've cast our ballot, we can't recall it; we can't change our mind. The choice made by the majority is final. There is no appeal. For two years or four years — whichever the term — the candidates chosen will run our governments. For indefinite periods, which may be very long, the decisions made on ballot propositions will shape our future.

THE BALLOT is long. The issues are complicated. And for months, we have been subjected to propaganda for and against. Much of it has made no sense. Much of it has worked on our emotions rather than our minds. It may have warped our judgment.

Candidates for office are expected to be atrocious braggarts. They go about telling us how good they are, pretending that they know the answers to all our problems. Of course, they don't. But to admit they don't is considered politically suicidal. It's ridiculous, but that's the way campaigns are.

We've heard most of them, seen them on television, read about them. Yet even now, we may be unsure how some of them stand on issues which are important to us.

Also, with so many races, we may have overlooked some. Before we go to the polls, it might pay us to refresh our memories with last Saturday's Marin Living section of the Independent-Journal. Its rundowns on candidates and propositions will at least help fix things in our minds.

THEN IT WILL BE up to each of us to make his own judgment on each candidate and each proposition. This act of voting is a personal thing; it is far too important for us to delegate the decision to somebody else. Let's not take anybody's word for it that this candidate is good or bad, that proposition dangerous or beneficial. Don't take our word for it, nor anyone else's. Each of us must decide for himself.

Many of us may still have questions about some of the contests as we go to vote. If we do, there is one question we can ask ourselves before we jab that stylus or stamp that "X":

Which of these candidates would I most trust to handle my own money or my own affairs?

IF ALL OF US apply that test, we are unlikely to go wrong on whom we place in office. The purpose of government is to do for us — all of us — things we are unable to do for ourselves individually. So we should try to put it in the hands of those we would trust with our own affairs.

Similarly, on propositions, we ask ourselves: What would this mean to me, and to my neighbor next door, and to my neighbor in the next city or county? Would it be good for us — all of us?

These are questions we can and should ask ourselves when we go to vote tomorrow.

See you at the polls!

"We do have something a bit nearer your price range — how are you on togetherness?"

County Counsel Quoted In Jurisdictional Row

I would like to add some facts to your editorial of Oct. 28, entitled "City vs. County Showdown Looms." These facts must be enumerated so that the functions of the Human Rights Commission may be better understood.

Your editorial stated that one of the incidents under investigation by the Human Rights Commission was a "brawl at Terra Linda High School." The actual incidentinvolved the role the San Rafael police played in breaking up a private party in Terra Linda.

The editorial quoted a phrase from the ordinance which created and governs the commission, which, taken by itself would appear to limit the operations of the commission to the unincorporated areas of the county. In order to understand the true intent of the ordinance, it is important to consider that the ordinance also states "Marin County will, therefore, to the extent permitted by law, endeavor to promote understanding and recognition of human rights wherever such is appropriate without regard to territorial limitation." . . .

County counsel's office, in its written ruling, states that "it is the opinion of this office that the Marin County Human Rights Commission has the jurisdiction to review the arrest incident if it finds that there is no body similar to it within the City of San Rafael." There is no similar body in San Rafael at present. . .

Young Driver Proves Samaritans Still Exist

May I use your column for a grateful "thank you" to a young man who was not afraid to become involved, even though it was pouring rain.

I was on my way home from Northgate shopping area Sunday, 7:30 p.m. As I entered the freeway, I realized I had a flat tire, so I pulled to the curb. I wrote my license number, name, etc., on a piece of paper and asked a young man to please call Triple A. I also gave telephone money. After waiting a reasonable time, I repeated my request to another motorist. I was becoming a little apprehensive as I realized all lines to Triple A were surely swamped. Then the young man I have mentioned stopped, and proceeded to call for help as his car was equipped with two-way radio or telephone.

He then helped me to get my car safely off the freeway and stood by in his car until the truck arrived. I expected to have a chance to express my thanks, but by the time I had unlocked the trunk he had driven away.

I hope if he reads this, he will call us for belated thanks, if nothing more than a steak dinner for him and his family.

Fats In Diet Important — For Dogs, That Is

Fats — how important are they in a dog's diet?

Dry, dull haircoats are caused by many things, improper nutrition being only one. Probably the most common nutritional fault causing dry scaly skin is a deficiency of total energy and insufficient fat in the dog's diet. His coat may become coarse and lifeless or cause him to become highly nervous and more susceptible to illness. Fats provide a dog with heat and help enhance his skin tone and hair quality. Bacon fat will turn a dry coat into a shiny one, and will provide the extra energy a dog needs. Any fat, however, would serve the same purpose. There are three fatty acids in fats which a dog requires: linoleic acid being the most important. Linoleic acid can be found in suet, corn oil, butter, pork fat (lard) and beef fat (tallow). Pork lard is far better for supplying essential fatty acids to the dog because it contains 12 per cent linoleic, while beef tallow contains only two per cent. By adding the extra energy the dog needs, the haircoat's shine is restored. Often the success seen with expensive fatty acid supplements and haircoat conditions is due to one thing, and not to the "miracle" ingredients they contain.

A dog's requirement of fat depends mostly on the amount of activity he gets. An active working dog needs up to 20 per cent fat in his diet, while the average city dog, who walks a few blocks every day, needs only five to eight per cent in his diet. The very thin dog should get a fat-rich diet until his weight and health improve.

CAPITOL QUIPS

Austerity is something new for the average American, whose idea of belt-tightening is to eat too much.

A politician who needs a loan right now should try to get it from friends, relatives or bankers — anybody but Nelson Rockefeller.

"Politics pretty quiet over the weekend. Democrats are attacking and Republicans are defending. All the Democrats have to do, is to promise 'what they would do if they got in.' But the Republicans have to promise 'what they would do' and then explain why they haven't already done it.

"I do honestly believe the Republicans have reformed and want to do better. But whether they have done it in time to win the election is another thing. The old voter is getting so he wants to be saved before October every election year." — Sept. 26, 1932.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND:

Resident China Watchers Not Wanted

CHINA RESISTING U.S. NEWSMEN. Numerous American newspapers, including the New York Times, the Christian Science Monitor and the Los Angeles Times, have sought permission for several years to open permanent news bureaus in Peking.

Doctors, scientists, academic scholars and others are granted visas, but regular correspondents are rejected.

Two reasons: The Chinese do not care to send Chinese reporters to the United States, and for their part they get more sympathetic coverage by allowing a few selected reporters into China for short periods.

In-and-out journalists do not learn much. Permanent correspondents learn too much.

STORM SIGNALS OVER KANSAS CITY. By now most of the 2,038 delegates to the mid-term Democratic Party convention have been chosen. The outlook is for rough going. The forces of moderate party regulars and those identified with the "new politics" liberals of Sen. George McGovern and Eugene McCarthy are about evenly divided. There will likely be no controlling majority; every important decision will have to be fought out on the floor, and the Democratic moderates are more divided among themselves than the McGovern-McCarthy "new politicians."

GEORGE MCGOVERN RISING, GEORGE WALLACE SLIPPING. A decisive McGovern victory in the Senate race in South Dakota is forecast. If it materializes, which is likely, count on McGovern to go all-out for another presidential nomination.

Although Wallace leads the Gallup Poll for Democratic candidates, he is lowest of all in winning delegates to the Kansas City convention. He'll have little more than 2 per cent — and half of them are from Alabama.

A CASUALTY OF RISING COSTS. That is what happened to the great passenger liner, France, a floating symbol of French national prestige. She floats at dock today, perhaps never to sail again.

Her total fuel bill for a three-month voyage came to nearly $4 million. When the France left Le Havre recently, fuel oil was $20 a ton. When she reached New York five days later, it was $35 a ton; and by the time the liner had reached Rio de Janeiro, it was $120 a ton. The France required a ton of fuel for every nautical mile.

ARE AMERICANS SELFISH, UNCARING? There are 37 million who aren't!

That many volunteered their time and talents for the public good from May, 1973, to April, 1974, according to a survey by the Census Bureau.

The survey shows that the main reasons people volunteer are that they "want to help people (60 per cent), have "a sense of duty" (38 per cent). Forty-nine per cent "simply enjoy volunteer work."

Only a small proportion (2 per cent) said they volunteered because they had nothing else to do.

Cross-Over Accidents Plague Freeway Design

By EARL G. WATERS

Although billions have been spent in the development of California freeways to make motor travel faster and safer, the state's highway engineers still work around the clock to improve highway safety.

When the freeway program was started back in the '40s, the emphasis was on replacing the old narrow two and three-lane state highways with four-lane divided roadways. Today, some of these are eight and 10-lane expressways.

But, almost from the beginning, a new hazard became apparent. This was the problem of vehicles going out of control and crossing into oncoming traffic.

Despite millions which have been spent in devising safety barriers, cross-median freeway accidents still claim more victims per accident than any other type of collision, according to highway safety engineer E. J. Tye.

INITIALLY THE FREEWAYS were designed to provide ample median width between opposing lanes. This, however, was not always possible and, in many cases, was negated with the construction of additional lanes.

Studies of physical barriers commenced as early as 1952, and by 1959 the highway officials had developed two basic types, the cable-chain link fences and the "bear" or guard rail.

Both types sought to establish a positive prevention of cars crossing into oncoming traffic with the further objective of returning the vehicle into the traffic stream with minimal injury to the occupants.

While the cable barrier best satisfied these criteria, its use is often restricted by terrain and its maintenance is considerably higher than that of the steel beam barrier.

More recently, the engineers have developed a concrete barrier which is designed to turn cars back if the angle of impact is slight. This type of barrier can be constructed at a cost nearly competitive with the cable or steel beam and its maintenance costs are a fraction of the other types. The drawback apparently is that the severity of injuries is far greater than other barrier types when the angle of impact is large.

Tye's boss, A. C. Estep, chief of traffic for the Department of Transportation, says that efforts to improve highway safety constitute a continuous program. The agency maintains a test site near Sacramento where radio-controlled cars are crashed into barriers of different designs and materials to determine their effectiveness.

ONE OF THE NEW materials which Estep indicated the agency may become interested in is polyglass or fiberglass.

While polyglass manufacturers have previously shown little interest in this potential market for their products, at least one manufacturer has not signalled a willingness to produce non-corrosive materials which he claims are superior in strength and flexibility at costs far below that now being paid. When one realizes the barriers range in cost from $9.50 to $18 a foot, the possibilities for saving loom enormous. Still, safety must be the number one concern of the highway officials. In any event, Estep has indicated a willingness to test any new materials which may be ordered.

'Italian Solution' To Mail Problem

(Reprinted from Portland Oregonian)

A letter writer to the Oregonian, Dorothy J. Lee, reports the disturbing news that letters sent without zip codes are simply disappearing, which ought to raise fears the post office may be headed toward an "Italian solution" to the mail problem.

In Italy, where Christmas mail often arrived at mid-summer, various strikes caused a backlog of mail, which, for lack of space, was stacked in the catacombs along with the bones of the early Romans. Then it was discovered the mail was being recycled back to a paper manufacturer.

Some enterprising Italians had simply sold the mail — love letters, bills, paychecks and advertisements — that the post office could not find time to delivery.

This was known for awhile as the "scandal of Bergamo," but it eventually reached the notice of the highest levels of government, where a crazy-quilt coalition of Christian Democrats and Socialists, prodded by the Communist Party, did what government does best: established a commission to study the problem.

The United States has more mail than any nation in the world. The country also has a paper supply problem. Its recycling and composting capabilities are also superior to those of Italy. Thus, the temptation to seek an Italian solution to both the mail and ecology problems like that found by the "sottogoverno" officials in Bergamo must be considerable.

Four Corners Hints What Is In Store For The West

FRUITLAND, N.M. — Four Corners: No one scene on our continent illustrates more powerfully the ultimate meaning of the energy strategy just formalized 2,000 miles away in Washington.

The Gerald Ford-Rogers Mortion power play that drove John Sawhill out as federal energy administrator says bluntly that the executive branch has opted for production over conservation as our main route through the shortages still ahead.

It spells destruction for thousands of the most spectacular square miles of the American West, as the energy conglomerates hurry with White House blessing to rip out coal, oil shale, and anything else that will burn. They race to make it an accomplished fact before the nation can comprehend the scale of the blunder.

HERE WHERE New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Colorado come together, the front edge of that future is already upon us. The Four Corners Power Plant has become a depressing footnote to 20th-century history, for when a pair of astronauts circled the earth, they radioed back that the only sign of man they could see below was the plume of heavy smoke trailing from Four Corners far across the deserts and mountains.

It is just as depressing close up. The road into the plant is flanked by long hills of upturned earth. That stripmine spoil is familiar to anyone who has traveled Appalachia. So is the pathetic little fenced-off irrigated area where sparse vegetation is growing — a demonstration that strip operators glibly call "reclamation."

Late on the day of this fall's first snowstorm in the mountains, steam arose from the artificial lake before the plant, used to feed the boilers. Dark stratus clouds left only a bright band of sunset above the horizon. Against it the towering striped stacks of the plant spewed smoke that streamed north, framing the Chuska Range beyond. Beautiful, perhaps, since hell, too, is probably beautiful from a certain angle on its outskirts. My Navaho friend beside me used the word "awesome."

YET IT IS ONLY the merest beginning. Not one but nine power plants are planned hereabouts. And the grasslands of North Dakota and Montana, the mountains of Wyoming, Colorado and Utah are in for the same treatment. The waters off every American coast, the air over every state will suffer in turn.

It is a prospect to cause the most unschooled savage to slow down, try to find another way, to postpone the move until it became a present matter of survival, and even then to have serious qualms. But there are no apparent qualms among those who have prevailed in Washington.

In accepting John Sawhill's "resignation," Mr. Ford said, "I have admired your candor and directness in addressing the difficult choices which face the nation . . ." The unstated postscript was "and I can do without it." The president blamed it all on Rogers Morton who, he said, is entitled to his own team as head of the new Energy Council. Appointing Morton to that role in itself confirmed Mr. Ford's approach to the energy situation. Despossing of Sawhill underlined it.

MORTON AS SECRETARY of interior has been heavily weighted toward exploiting rather than protecting the vast square mileage of America in his care. Any time he made a decision favoring the land rather than the corporations eager to rape the land, it was news because it was an exception to the rule.

Sawhill as energy administrator has not been an environmental crusader; rather, he has been hardheaded about adopting measures that would mean prompt relief, such as heavily taxing gasoline and forcing automobile makers to improve gas mileage. His mistake was in saying so, out loud.

So Morton will have his own team of yeasayers, the energy corporations will extend their booming profits, and tomorrow's America will have Four Corners times infinity.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 4, 1964

Ernest N. Kettenhofen defeated William D. Fusselman's try for a seventh term on the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Incumbent George H. Ludy also lost, to Thomas T. Storer. Byron W. Leydecker nosed out John F. McInnis for a short term as First District supervisor.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 4, 1954

Threats of recall action against San Rafael city councilmen were hurled at a mass meeting protesting the city's $1,250,000 flood control plan.

NEW BIKE PATH OPENS

A horde of young bicycle riders scoots over the new Pacheco Hill bikeway, celebrating the breaking of bike riders' last bottleneck between the Golden Gate Bridge and Novato. Marin County and the state Department of Transportation shared the $90,000 construction cost and shared dedication ceremonies Saturday with officials of the Marinwood Community Services District.

Manual Revises Diet Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new government diet manual says persons on low cholesterol diets may be better off eating shellfish than porterhouse steak.

The diet book, issued recently by the National Heart and Lung Institute, reversed a nearly decade-old ban on consumption of clams, oysters, lobsters and other shellfish for individuals on low-fat diets.

The book "The Dietary Management of Hyperlipoproteinemia" is available only to physicians and dietitians. It lists several low-fat diets including one that includes shrimp and another that okays eating of any other type of shellfish.

A health official said new studies show a dieter was probably better off eating clams or other shellfish than a steak.

The previous publication of the medical guide listed shellfish, egg yolks, organ meats, chocolate and ice cream as foods to avoid because they were believed to be high in cholesterol, a fatty substance that has a tendency to build up along arterial walls leading to hardening of the arteries and heart attacks.

Even if shellfish does have as much cholesterol as a cut of beef, it doesn't have as much fat, the health official said.

Shellfish was added to the revised diets after the Department of Agriculture developed better data on cholesterol levels, based on new measuring techniques, the official said.

Council To Get Building Plans

The Corte Madera Town Council will receive revised plans from the California Highway Patrol for its new building near U.S. 101 and Paradise Drive at the council meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at town hall.

Councilmen were unhappy with the facility's parking arrangements when first presented Oct. 7.

The council will meet in closed session to consider appointing a planning commissioner to replace John W. Gates, who resigned.

Ex-Correspondent To Discuss Israel

Jeffrey Gale, a former assistant editor of the San Francisco Jewish Bulletin and a correspondent in Israel in 1972, will lead a discussion on "Israel: Public Opinion and the Media" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Marin Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road in San Rafael.

The meeting is one in a series of Wednesday night discussions this month and December at the center on "Current Trends."

YES ON J

Here Are Some Questions and Answers About Measure J

1. Will quality suffer if J fails?

Absolutely. Drastic action would be necessary; closing schools, eliminating bus transportation, raising class size (by releasing classroom teachers) are possibilities.

2. Has the Mill Valley Elementary School District already made budget cuts?

Yes. This year alone there are 9 fewer teachers, one less bus route, no school library clerks, and one less administrator at the District Office.

3. Will "yes" on J mean easy times for the School District?

No, Cutbacks will continue, but they can and will be made in an atmosphere of deliberate choice with proper consideration of priorities.

4. Will the money raised by J be used for extras?

No. At best, it will only maintain the status quo.

A World Food Agency Is Proposed By U.S.

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The United States today proposed a new world food agency to bring Russia and the oil-producing nations into food aid programs.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told a news conference he felt such an agency, which would supplement the existing U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO), will be discussed at the World Food Conference opening tomorrow in Rome. Butz left here for Rome after talks with European Common officials.

Pierre Lardinois, the Common Market agricultural commissioners, said he had learned the FAO itself would propose a new agency, linked to the FAO, to give Russia a share of coordinated food programs.

Press reports from Washington had said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will tell the conference's opening session that a new agency, responsible to the U.N. Secretary General, is needed to oversee food aid, trade, production and reserves.

"The FAO does not include one of the world's leading food-producing and food-consuming nations, the Soviet Union," Butz said. "I think any program like this that will involve a better monitoring of food supplies...to be meaningful, must have some input from the Soviet Union."

Butz added that "by the same token, one of the groups of nations currently able, and which is exhibiting some willingness, to increase their participation in world food aid programs, are the oil-producing nations.

"I think it is felt that if there is the creation of some kind of additional body called a world food agency, a small body that can serve this purpose, this may come out the conference," he said. "It surely will be discussed."

Lardinois said the Common Market itself is "not very much in favor of creating new bodies where other bodies exist to do the job." But he said FAO Chairman Addeke H. Boerma would propose a new body, "not totally separate from the FAO, which has the possibility that outsiders, not members of the FAO, could participate. This could open possibilities...for the Soviet Union."

Butz said he assured Lardinois that the United States did not intend to respond to lowered grain reserves by embargoing exports to Europe. In a speech here later, he admitted that the U.S. embargo on soybean exports last year "was in retrospect a mistake."

Lardinois said the Common Market had responded by promising to monitor its own grain imports needs and contracts, to provide more information on which world grain trade can be based.

Top Economist Claims Nation In A Recession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Albert Rees, head of the Council of Wages and Stability, said today despite President Ford's official stand the country is in a recession.

"It's an unusual recession because prices are still going up and it has not been declared an official recession by the National Bureau of Economic Research," he said.

"But I think when we look back on this in a year or so from now, it will have been declared a recession."

Rees, formerly a Princeton University economist who was brought into the administration by Ford, was asked on the CBS Morning News how his stand conflicted with the President's.

"President Ford, of course, is not an economist," Rees said. "Most of the economists in the administration have called it a recession in one way or another."

When asked about the possibility of imposing wage and price controls, Rees said:

"I'm against across the board wage and price controls. I think the costs are enormous ... I do think the rate of inflation is going to decrease in the months ahead and I don't think controls will be necessary."

Board To Hear Of School Plan

Supt. Robert D. Torrey will present a new proposal for group participation in planning the educational program, staffing it and paying for it, when the Tamalpais High School District board meets today at 8 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Torrey said the new plan is a product of meetings last week with teachers' organizations, school principals and staff. A previous plan died at last Monday's meeting because teachers were relucant to participate in a study which might result in elimination of some of their jobs.

The board will meet with its negotiating team in closed session at 7:30 p.m.

School Scheduling Before Trustees

The possibility of closing a school or rearranging students among schools will be discussed by the Reed School District board tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Granada School, according to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello.

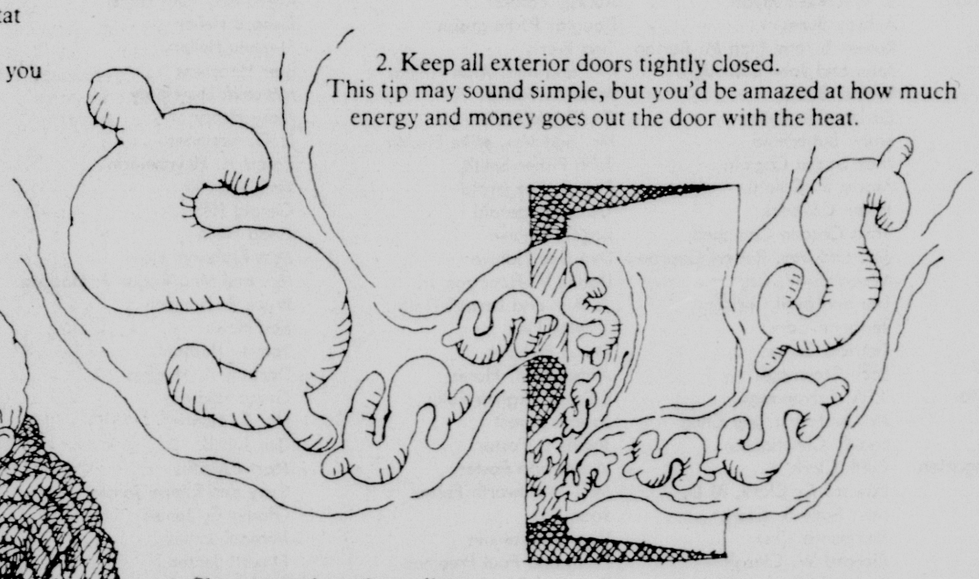

The district board has discussed various reorganization plans for several months because of declining enrollment. Giovanniello said that the board probably will begin narrowing down the number of options to be considered at tomorrow's meeting.

7 WAYS TO KEEP WARMER, CHEAPER.

Because our costs for fuel have gone up, your fuel costs are higher this winter than last, too. But even with increased rates, you can still hold down your heating costs by decreasing your energy usage. Here are some practical "here's hows."

1. Set your furnace thermostat to a temperature of 68° or lower. Turn it down even more when you leave home or go to bed.

2. Keep all exterior doors tightly closed. This tip may sound simple, but you'd be amazed at how much energy and money goes out the door with the heat.

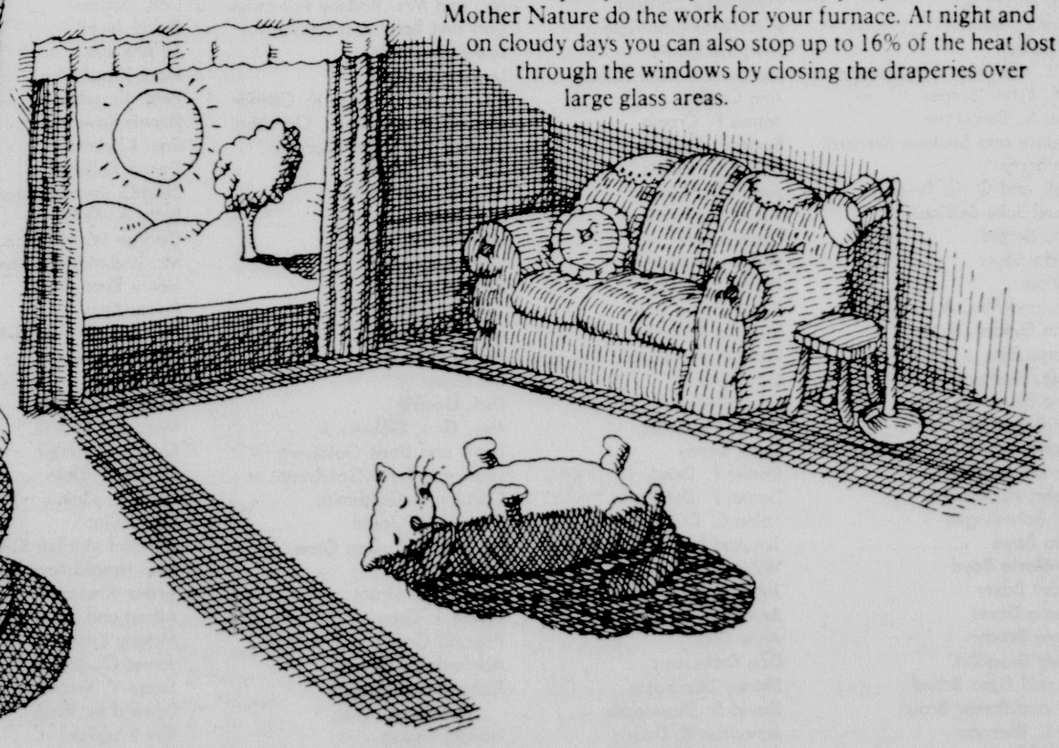

3. Drag out Aunt Lucy's homemade sweater. Remember the cable knit you thought was really knit out of cables? It can actually help at lower thermostat settings.

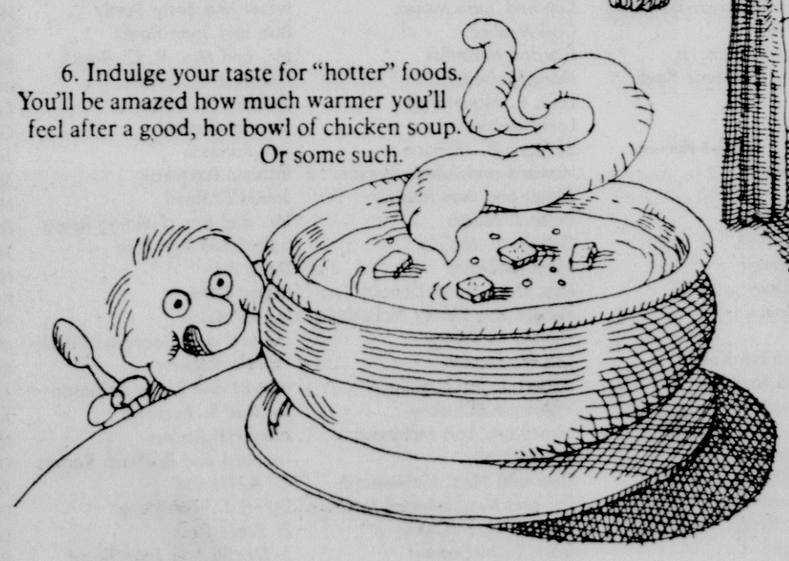

4. Clean or replace those dirty filters that make the furnace work harder than necessary to heat your home.

5. Open your draperies on sunny days. Let Mother Nature do the work for your furnace. At night and on cloudy days you can also stop up to 16% of the heat lost through the windows by closing the draperies over large glass areas.

6. Indulge your taste for "hotter" foods. You'll be amazed how much warmer you'll feel after a good, hot bowl of chicken soup. Or some such.

7. When you're not using the fireplace, close the damper. Why let your heat escape up a flue that can't appreciate it?

Women Earned Role In Marin Politics

VERA SCHULTZ
Her record has not been equalled

By BETTY FROST
(First of three articles on Marin women in politics.)

Election of women to political office has become a near commonplace in Marin in the last five years, but it was not always so.

While women have for years held seats on community school boards, and occasionally used this service as a stepping stone to town councils or large district boards, most of the county's higher offices have eluded them.

But the ice has been broken: for example, six women were elected to city council office in Marin last April. Three women now serve on the Sausalito council, a majority of the members.

Of two outstanding women in Marin's political arena, Vera Schultz of Mill Valley and Elizabeth Deedy of Ross, it could be said:

"You've come a long way, ladies, and the newcomers still have a long way to go to catch up with you."

THEY WERE TRUE pioneers.

Both first sought public office in the post World War II years.

Mrs. Schultz is the only woman ever elected to the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Mrs. Deedy spent 13 years as a trustee of the Marin Community College District, a post she resigned this June to acept appointments to two state boards, the California Post Secondary Education Commission and the Board of Governors of California Community Colleges.

Each has approached political life from a different direction and resolved the adjustment of family and community responsibilities in an individual way.

FROM THE TIME of her campaign for Mill Valley City Council in 1946, Mrs. Schultz has been deeply aware of the political strength and needs of women. She claims to have "invented the coffee hour" as an election tool, when she ran for state assembly in 1950.

"Instead of focusing on why I was a candidate, I spoke to the women who attended our coffee hours about the status of all women and made them allies rather than critics," she said.

"Although," she recalls, "I was a lamb led to the slaughter" in the campaign for the state legislature against the incumbent, Richard H. McCollister, the political momentum carried her into a successful race for county supervisor in 1952. She was reelected four years later.

"I very warmly favor women seeking office," Mrs. Schultz said. She is somewhat bitter about the record of women participating at the state level, noting that California women received the vote 12 years before the passage of the 19th amendment in 1920. There are only two women in the state legislature today.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz moved to Mill Valley from the East Bay in 1928. They have one daughter, Joyce.

"I HAD a liberated husband," the former supervisor said of Ray C. Schultz, insurance executive. "He approved of my doing it and helped in my campaigns, often introducing himself as the 'husband of the candidate'. He is cool."

He was also always able to provide household help. Lack of such assistance in the home is one of the changes for younger women now seeking political office, she acknowledged. However, with changes of attitude, more men are assisting with household chores, Mrs. Schultz noted.

"Although I don't expect to be a candidate myself again, I can't keep away from supporting other candidates, because I believe so firmly in democratic principles," Mrs. Schultz said. "I look with special favor at women seeking public office."

EDUCATION HAS been the consuming concern for Elizabeth Deedy during her 20 years of public service. She and her husband, Daniel F. Deedy, executive manager of the Marin County Board of Realtors, moved to Mill Valley during World War II, when Deedy was still in the Army.

She first stepped into the political waters when she ran successfully for trustee of the Mill Valley School District in 1954. Now a resident of Ross, Mrs. Deedy, was elected trustee of the Marin Community College District in 1958.

There are six children in the Deedy family. When she first became active in politics, the children were young, and she would attend meetings in the afternoons, when the younger children were napping and the older ones in school. She always thought it was important to be home when the children returned from school.

She learned to organize her household as one phase of a busy, productive life, and these habits are still practiced. During a conversation last week she explained that she would be leaving for Sacramento for a few days, with all the family's meals planned ahead while she is gone.

"I LEARNED to restructure my life," she explained. "Our home life is wonderfully rich and compatable, and we share our interests. However, if my activities had been detrimental, I wouldn't have sacrificed my marriage and my family."

Does she favor other women seeking elective office?

"I am extremely enthusiastic about young people taking an active part, regardless of sex," she said. "I never have been for discrimination of any sort. The real criteria are ability and dedication. Women should be involved. There is no reason for them to be timid. I would urge them to study the issues, to step out and speak out."

For the whole community, she advised, "I wish more men and women would make the time to attend local meetings before they get their toes stepped on. It is better to become involved before issues are cast in concrete. Differing opinions bring solid progress."

DURING THE YEARS of her service for the Community College district, great growth and progress came about. Enrollment increased, the second campus, at Indian Valley was planned, there was new construction and an emphasis on vocational as well as academic training met the needs of the times.

From her experiences as a member of that board, she brings a practical understanding to her present work. "Education at the state level offers a challenging picture reflecting the complexities of society — cultural, social, and ethnic. The goals of quality and diversification in education must be achieved within the realities of the problem of financing," she said.

How To Ease The Grocery Store Blues

As any Marin food shopper can tell you, the weekly trip to the grocery store is getting more and more painful. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, shoppers will not be faced with any food shortages in the immediate future, but, on the average, "a further rise in prices can be expected."

Now is the time to shop with a sharp eye on food costs. Common sense buying won't bring prices down but it can help stretch the inflated food dollar. Keep in mind this key question, "Do I really need this product?"

What can the consumer do to fend off high food costs? The Department of Agriculture suggests that you:

Plan menus for the week before going shopping.

Buy foods that are in season.

Compare labels on products to be sure of getting the most nutritional value.

Take advantage of unit pricing.

Buy house brands instead of nationally advertised products unless the national brands are on special.

Take advantage of open dating to be sure of getting the freshest products.

Set specific budget for food and staying within that budget.

Keep in mind that more waste is generated by shopping on an empty stomach. When hungry, a shopper tends to buy items on eye appeal alone, not need. Shop once a week and avoid inbetween impulse buying.

Electronics firms are pushing the use of mini-calculators to tally food costs. If one is not available, use a pencil and paper to add up costs before reaching the check-out counter.

Paying with cash is a deterrent — it's too easy to write a check and besides, the cost of check handling is passed on to the consumer.

Learn the meaning of food gradings. For example, when comparing eggs of different sizes and prices, use the following rule: buy extra large rather than large eggs if the price difference per dozen is less than one-ninth of the price of extra large; buy large rather than medium if the price difference is less than one-eighth of the price of large; buy medium rather than small if the difference is less than one-seventh the price of medium. Use Grade B eggs for cooking and baking.

Don't buy large quantities of a food item just because it is priced, for example, "10 for 89 cents." If it's a perishable item, the savings can be wiped out in just a few days.

Stay away from "convenience" size packages for foods such as dry cereal, snack food or canned juices — a simple comparative calculation will show that you're often paying more for the box than for what's inside.

Buying in quantity, though, is a good way to shop if you have the room for storage.

Compare canned-vegetable prices with those of fresh frozen ones in large bags. Use only what is needed for a meal and keep the rest in the freezer.

Watch for displays of reduced baked goods, especially breads. Hamburger, hotdog or dinner rolls are good even when day-old. They can be steamed or reheated in the oven to make them lighter.

Buy cheese in blocks rather than cubed, sliced or grated brands. As much as two dollars can be saved by buying loaves of unsliced American or cheddar cheese.

The same is true of butter or margarine bought by the roll or square and cut into quarters at home.

Use nonfat milk in cooking and baking and mix with whole milk or half-and-half for drinking and cooking.

Watch the newspaper for grocery store specials and do comparison shopping. Use coupons only when its for a product you normally purchase.

Don't be hesitant to return items to the store if they did not meet with your satisfaction.

Helpful government bulletins and books, often free, are available by writing the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Ask for a list of publications on food, cooking, shopping and menus.

Bert Broemmel Married To Barbara Henderson

Marin County Assessor Bert Broemmel and Barbara Ann Henderson of Kentfield were married Saturday in a quiet ceremony at the Broemmel home in San Rafael.

Close family members were the only guests. Attending were the new Mrs. Broemmel's two daughters, Candace Lee Simmonds and Shelley Henderson, both of Kentfield, and Broemmel's children, Dorothy Jean Scott of Novato and Bert G. Broemmel of Rohnert Park.

The Broemmels plan a wedding trip to Mexico later this month. Broemmel has served as county assessor since January of 1959, and has been elected to start a new four-year term in January. He has lived in Marin since 1942.

The new Mrs. Broemmel has lived in Marin for 20 years, and has been active in the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael where she sings in the choir.

It is the second marriage for both.

Egg Substitute

Custard — the baked variety — may be made with egg whites instead of whole eggs or egg yolks. Cornstarch may be used instead of egg yolks for "binding" a sauce.

Lawrences Mark 50th Anniversary

Eula Lawrence has been a golf widow for several decades, but her marriage to Harry Lawrence has survived to its 50th year.

The Lawrences celebrated their golden anniversary yesterday at a party given by their children at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club in Novato.

And according to the couple, it's been a wonderful 50 years.

"Time passes so quickly when everything is pleasant. I just can't believe those years are all behind us," Lawrence said. The two met when he was a sergeant in the Army Air Corps and she was a waitress in a hotel dining room in Mt. Clemens, Mich.

"I remember it like it was yesterday. I was on a stool

Sonoma Board To Create Commission For Women

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has agreed to the creation of a Commission on the Status of Women. Final decision on its composition and scope will be made Dec. 9.

The group will have less power and authority than its founders sought which they hoped would include the ability to investigate discrimination by private businesses and the authority to issue subpoenas. A compromise solution will be discussed at further meetings between county officials and women's organizations and representatives.

"The history of the world is only the history of half the world. We are giving you a chance to rectify that," said Ann Byrd at the meeting, a spokesman for the women's groups supporting the commission.

Since early this summer the group has campaigned for an organization to deal with any problems of sex discrimination in employment, housing, education, community services and other fields in the county.

Cooking Classes Scheduled at Y

Two cooking classes will begin this week under auspices of the Marin Young Women's Christian Association.

Margaret Repetto Smith of Kentfield will teach Dinner Party II, sharing recipes and menu ideas designed to make entertaining more interesting. The course will be held Wednesdays beginning this week from 10 a.m. until noon for five weeks. Cost of $25 includes food.

Nancy Jue of Belvedere will teach a class in Chinese cookery, from family to banquet dishes, including how to use the wok, where to shop for ingredients and cultural information about cooking methods.

The class begins tomorrow morning from 10 to 11:30 a.m. for six Tuesdays and costs $30 including the food.

Both classes are to be held at the YWCA offices, 1618 Mission Street, San Rafael. Membership in the Y is a prerequisite.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Conserving Clara Computes 20 Per Cent Food Bill Cuts

DEAR HELEN: I got a pleasant surprise today, doubly so because I've been conditioned to expect the worst: I totaled my grocery bills for July, August and September (I keep itemized accounts of everything I buy at the supermarkets, including soap, paper products, etc.) and — amazing! — I discovered I'd spent about five per cent LESS than I did a year ago for the same period! This in spite of skyrocketing prices, and the fact that as our four children grow older their appetites increase.

We haven't been starving either. But I've been reeducating myself and family. I no longer consider it "chintzy" to buy cheap cuts of meat; I concentrate on "specials" even if they aren't a name-brand (because I have found less expensive brands are just as good), and I clip coupons like mad. We're eating a lot of hamburger, but there are so many ways to cook and mix it that we're actually eating more imaginatively these days. Also, we grew a small garden this summer which helped.

I now make my own mayonnaise, my own granola; we've cut out junk food and beverages; and I have found several farms where we can buy big quantities of fruits and vegetables comparatively cheap. (Several housewives go together, cutting down on gas.)

Since grocery prices have increased about 15 per cent, according to statisticians, but our bill is five per cent less than in the summer of '73, I figure my conservation program has cut some 20 per cent from our ordinary food budget. And we aren't hurtin'! Actually we're healthier — when fruit replaced gooey desserts, we all lost a few unwanted pounds.

What I'm saying is that American middle-class people don't need to let inflation murder them. We can all cut back by buying carefully or making do with what we have. If everyone in the country would get chintzy we could stop inflation in its tracks!

And that goes for clothes, furniture, cars, houses, etc., as well as food.

Our family's slogan is, "Buy now, pay double: so only buy when you can't do without a minute longer! — CONSERVING CLARA

DEAR CLARA:

Does that go for Christmas presents too? If the American people can curb foolish holiday spending, I'll believe we're really serious about licking inflation. Up to this point, it seems to me we've screamed a lot, but the great middle- and upper-middle class hasn't deprived itself very much (though we are learning to cut down on groceries and gas).

What this country needs is more "Conserving Claras," who don't shrug, "A penny saved will be worth half as much next month, so let's spend it now!"

Thanks for your good letter. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Our son is artistic. He acts, writes, plays several musical instruments, and dreams of being famous. He's good, but look how many fail in the arts.

Instead of going into his father's shoe store, he wants to spend two years in New York, earning his keep at whatever comes up, and trying to break into acting first, then writing and producing.

I tell him, "Aspiring to reach the stars can lose your footing on solid ground." (The shoe store will make him a comfortable living.) Don't you agree? — NOTHING VENTURED

NOTHING LOST

DEAR NVNL:

No, I don't agree!

Shoe stores aren't for those who "aspire to reach the stars" — not at least until they have tried their wings.

Since you like homilies, here's one authored by another star-reacher, our daughter Kathy: "A nose to the grindstone can dull a fine nose." — H.

Project Aims At Fire Deaths

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every 45 seconds, on the average, fire breaks out in a home. Every 44 minutes fire claims a life.

The highest death rate by fire at home is among persons 65 years of age and older. The second highest is among children under five.

"Project Rescue" aims to help out deaths by fire in these groups — each relatively helpless under conditions of fire at home.

The lifesaving public service program is sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents (NAIA).

Project Rescue alerts firefighters to the area of the home in which a priority search should be conducted to rescue those persons who are least able to help themselves.

This is done by means of special high visibility decals that mark the windows of rooms which house infants, the elderly or infirm.

Children are easily terrified in emergencies and too often seek shelter under beds and in closets. Older persons, similarly, become confused and are helpless.

Unless firemen know they are in the home — and where — valuable time is lost. All too often, the lost time adds up to a lost life.

The decals on the bedroom windows of the young and elderly gives immediate information at the scene of the potentially disastrous situation even though no other members of the family is present to inform and direct.

(I-J editor's note: A spot check of Marin insurance firms turned up none who are participating in the program.)

Paris Still Is Holding Onto That Slim Look For Spring

PARIS (UPI) — Not all Paris designers are falling for the new ballooning dresses big enough for two. The big-name couture houses ready-to-wear collections from Givenchy to Ungaro still offer slim, quiet looks for spring.

The creations of the top houses, in ready-to-wear as in custom couture, are meant for the woman who likes to putter in the garden of her antique-filled chateau and wear sable-lined raincoats for jetting between Paris and New York.

The high fashion houses stress fullness, as do the cheaper lines, but the fullness is controlled. Lanvin and Jean-Louis Scherrer dropped hemlines but Givenchy and Ungaro ignored the long look and kept hemlines a hand's width under the knee.

And while boutique and factory designers did their best to convince women trousers are out so they'll splurge on dresses, Givenchy, Ungaro, Saint Laurent included plenty of pants suits.

Givenchy: Sponge velvet beach capes over bikinis. Knit pants suits. Halter top sundresses with belted jackets. Straight, loose chemise dresses with elbow-length full sleeves. Evening chiffons with matching scarves to drape around the shoulders. Wedgie shoes. Lots of purple and pale gray.

Jean-Louis Scherrer: Turbans, fake flowers, broad shoulders on dresses and tailored jackets and wedgie shoes gave a 1940s look. Wild applause for rain capes and matching dirndl skirts with soft silk open-collared blouses and neck scarves.

Floral printed full skirts with solid colored blouses and long cardigan sweaters in red, leaf green, yellow-orange or purple. Printed long chiffons with huge shoulder scarves.

Emanuel Ungaro: Slim shifts that do not look like maternity dresses. Blazer jackets over printed dresses. Twin sweater sets in shiny rayon knits with printed crepe skirts or trousers. Cream colored roomy coats buttoned down the front. Flower and dot printed dresses and shirts. Apricot trench coat with matching trousers.

Pierre Cardin: No space age styles but back-to-earth little knit suits, raincoats in a fiberglass fabric and loose chemise dresses that look like widened shirts with long sleeves.

Saint Laurent: tucked dirndl skirts with string ties circling the waist, in cotton for day or crepe for night. Scoop-necked smock tops in printed crepes over trousers or skirts. The shirt suit: long, loose shirt jacket in knits, gabardine, flannel, cotton poplin or crepe over bowed shirt blouses or tank sweaters teamed with full skirts with stitched tucked hip yokes.

Teen-Agers Lead Vandalism Fight

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

MENLO PARK (UPI) — Police officer Moses Webb has found an answer in the fight against increasing and costly vandalism: let the teen-agers lead the battle.

Webb, 32, a black community relations officer, marshaled youths in the Belle Haven section of Menlo Park and the adjacent town of East Palo Alto to bring vandalism to a virtual halt.

Both areas are low-income communities with scores of vacant homes repossessed by the Federal Housing Administration.

"Kids used to go into these houses and break windows, rip out plumbing or start fires," said Webb.

The vandalism bill ran as high as $100,000 a year, according to police estimates.

In the summer of 1973 Webb recruited 10 teen-agers in a drive against breakins and vandalism.

"Each kid would have the responsibility of taking care of 10 homes and they were paid $50 a week," Webb said.

The youngsters all lived near the abandoned homes and their first step was to contact people living in the area to join in the campaign.

"After a while," Webb said, "we'd be getting help from the people who lived on each side of the vacated home."

The youths would make periodic inspections of the homes and were expected to influence their peers to stop the destruction. However, what is probably the most unique aspect of the program is what happened to the vandals when they were caught.

"The teen-agers, which we call junior housing inspectors, met with the parents of the youngster involved and worked out the problem. Calling in police was the final, drastic step.

"In only one case was it necessary to bring in police," Webb said.

However, a problem did arise in handling matters this way, he said.

"One of the inspectors was so enthusiastic he took the vandal to 'fist city' but it only happened once," the policeman said.

The program has gained Webb several honors, including selection as one of the nation's outstanding police officers.

Menlo Park Police Chief Victor Cizanckas says Webb's project "stopped 90 per cent of the vandalism.

"In the process he generated some new community pride and brought federal money into the community to provide jobs for hard working minority youths who needed employment."

Cizanckas feels the most important result of the teen-agers' work has been the response from other communities faced with the same problems.

"Dozens of cities across the United States have contacted us for details of the program and they have replicated the crime prevention techniques developed by officer Webb in their own cities."

Webb's success during one summer, the police chief said, shows "that more police and bigger jails are not necessarily the answer to crime and community problems."

MARRIAGE

sitting in a little restaurant downtonw in Mt. Clemens, and I spotted her, talking on the telephone. I just went over and introduced myself, and from then on we were going together."

They were married two years later, when she was 18 and he was 22. "I made my own dress — it was blue satin with fur on the bottom," she remembers. They were married in the minister's home, with only two witnesses. "We were married on Saturday, and went back to work Monday."

But Mrs. Lawrence never golfed herself, and soon took to staying home with her own hobbies, sewing, knitting and crocheting. "I was always glad for him, he had this love of golf. It made him a happy man."

The two were joined in their anniversary celebration yesterday by their two children, Kaytie Haymart of Carmichael and Robert Lawrence of Denver, several of their several grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The secret of their long marriage? "Don't share too many secrets," he said. "If you do, you'll argue too much," he said.

"Try to understand each other and just get along," said Mrs. Lawrence.

Five More Deaths Boost Argentina Violence Toll

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Four persons were shot to death in Argentina this weekend and another man was found slain today, the news agency Noticias Argentinas reported today. Three of the victims were members of the Socialist Workers' party.

The latest victim to be identified was PST member Arturo Robles Urquiza who died of machine gun bullet wounds fired by unidentified gunmen who attacked him on the street from a passing car.

Police today found a man identified as Agustin Callium, 31, shot to death in front of his home outside Buenos Aires, the NA agency said. No data on political or union affiliations of Callium were given by police, NA said.

Socialists Workers' Party leader Juan Carlos Coral identified two victims yesterday as PST militants Ruben Boussas, 29, and Juan Carlos Nievas, 23, the Noticias Argentinas news agency said. Police identified the weekend's third shooting victim as Carlos Alberto Della Riva, 30, a university professor.

Since Friday the death toll from political violence in Argentina this year has reached 180. The figure included the deaths of federal police chief Alberto Villar, a devoted anti-guerrilla fighter and his wife.

According to the NA agency the body of Della Riva, a Peronist left-wing radical who gave a course called The National Reality at the national university at La Plata, 36 miles southeast of Buenos Aires, was found yesterday riddled with more than 70 bullets in a large park about 12 miles outside that city, police said.

Boussas' body appeared in an empty lot in an area of metropolitan Buenos Aires that had been used recently as dumping ground for three other bodies, NA said.

The abductors who called themselves police told Boussas' parents that their son was being taken away for a routine check, according to NA.

Nievas, the other PST militant, was found executed on Saturday in a poor peoples' village in the heart of the city, according to a communique sent to newspapers by the PST.

The Fords Cast Absentee Votes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford disclosed today that he and wife Betty already have voted by absentee ballot in Michigan's 5th District which he represented for 25 years in the House.

In a statement urging every American to vote in the general elections tomorrow, Ford said: "We both voted. I hope they're counted. They might be important."

Floodwaters Drive Thousands From Their Oklahoma Homes

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Raging floodwaters drove 10,000 persons from homes in Oklahoma during the weekend while the season's first major snowfall snarled traffic and knocked out power in northwest Kansas.

The western snowstorm also hampered search efforts for a missing plane and its two passengers in Utah.

Civil Defense officials said weekend floodwaters caused more than $10 million in property damage in central and eastern Oklahoma and drove 10,000 persons from homes.

Two persons died in Oklahoma weather-related traffic accidents, but no other serious injuries were reported.

"We've got everything pretty well under control, but the water is up and coming up real fast," said a police dispatcher at Skiatook, Okla.

Some 1,300 persons were evacuated in Skiatook and another 100 families fled in Tulsa county.

Many flood refugees stayed with relatives or in community centers, National Guard armories, or churches.

Gov. David Hall asked for a presidential disaster declaration for eight Oklahoma counties, but said more counties would be included when damage assessments could be made.

Winter'e first major storm in western Kansas dumped from two to seven inches of snow on the state yesterday but much of it disappeared as soon as it hit the ground.

The heaviest snowfall was reported in the far northwest corner of the state, where wet snow snarled traffic and knocked out power in some areas. There were isolated reports of as much as 10 inches of snow on the ground.

Police in St. Francis in the far northwest corner reported more than eight inches of snow was on the ground at noon yesterday. The heavy snowfall knocked down a major power line and one-third of the town's 1,800 residents were temporarily without electricity.

In the state's southeastern areas, heavy rains produced the threat of serious flooding. More rain was forecast for today.

The National Weather Service said major flooding occurred in southeast Kansas on the Marmaton River and the lower reaches of the Marais des Cygnes, Grand Verdigres and Arkansas rivers.

Rescuers at Bicknell, Utah, were hampered by more than a half-foot of fresh snow in their search yesterday for a missing plane with two persons aboard.

"The plane is white with blue trim," said Wayne County Sheriff Dee Johnson, "and with the new snow its not going to be easy to spot."

The search was to continue today for the plane carrying Denver contractor Roy P. Kennedy and his wife on a flight from Milford, Utah, to Grand Junction, Colo.

The plane disappeared Saturday night and was believed to be down in the Thousand Oaks Lake mountain area.

Civic Center Talks Slated

The Novato City Council will discuss construction of a new civic center at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Grace Lutheran Church, 1787 Grant Avenue. The council is meeting at the church while the Novato Community House is being repaired.

The civic center issue has stirred controvery in recent weeks since two councilmen, taking advantage of the absence of two of their colleagues, voted to reverse a prior council decision to go ahead and acquire property for a civic center.

Kopechne Series Hit By Kennedy

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., criticized the Boston Globe yesterday for relying on unidentified sources in a series of articles on his involvement in the 1969 death of a young woman at Chappaquiddick.

Kennedy, in a letter to the newspaper published in its Sunday edition, said the Globe used the "unnamed sources" to relate "grossly unfair" allegations relating to his involvement in the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

"On several occasions, the articles made use of unnamed sources — at one point for example, they say I intended to take Mary Jo Kopechne for a walk on the beach instead of the ferry;

"At another point, to say I considered a plan to have Mr. (Joseph) Gargan (Kennedy's cousin) take the blame for the tragedy," Kennedy's letter said.

"These charges are ugly, untrue and grossly unfair," he said.

Globe Editor Thomas Winship, in response to the letter, said, "The Globe obviously did not rely on just one source in its two-month investigation of the Chappaquiddick affair. As always, the Spotlight (reporting) team carefully considered the integrity and knowledgeability of its sources before publishing information provided by them."

The series of articles said considerable doubt existed about Kennedy's version of the mishap, adding that only "inept prosecution" by wary officials prevented Kennedy's indictment on serious charges.

Kennedy was interviewed by the newspaper's investigative reporting team concerning the accident which occurred after a party. The text of the interview appeared as the leadoff article in the series a week ago yesterday.

Kennedy wrote the Globe should have applied the same standards used by the Washington Post reporters who covered the Watergate story. Kennedy said the Post did not print statements from unidentified sources unless they were corroborated "by a second source or verified in some other way."

"If the (Globe) Spotlight articles had met this standard these charges would have never been printed. The facts and the testimony clearly refute them," Kennedy said.

The senator said it was impossible for Gargan to have taken responsibility for the accident on Chappaquiddick Island five years ago because the people at the party knew Gargan was still there when Kennedy and Miss Kopechne left.

"It is regrettable, in the atmosphere of doubt and suspicion which enshrouds us as a people, that the truth cannot compete with the unnamed sources, the groundless suggestions and the speculation which is nurtured by articles of sensationalism. That is the only aspect of the entire tragic matter which I will not accept," Kennedy said.

ART REVIEW

Two Artists' Views Of Nature

By ADA GARFINKEL

Two highly individual and poetic approaches to nature emerge from Diane Karaski's soft, tonally diffused lithographs and Roger Rosenfeld's sensuously textured black and white photographs. Both are currently on display at the Port Art Gallery in Mill Valley.

Both artists live in Marin and the county's topography and atmospheric conditions constitute the main essence of their imagery.

Miss Karasik, who received her master of fine arts degree from California State University at San Francisco this year and previously studied in Italy, recently moved to Mill Valley.

Her lithographs, with their subtle gradations of light and color are skillfully controlled and very handsome. Her depictions of the barely perceptible confluence of land, sea, sky, fog, and elements of time in her "Commuter" series, in "Mt. Tam," "Water and Fog," "Coyote Point," "Full Moon," and "Orion," are filtered through her sensitive and personal vision.

We view these scenes then through Miss Karasik's eyes, rather than our own identification with them. And this is all right, since hers is an elegant and lyrical, if cooly remote, vision.

Rosenfeld, who once studied music history, graduated from the New York Institute of Photography in 1969. He also studied photography at the University of California at Berkeley. He moved to Woodacre in 1970 and many of his photos were taken in that area.

The immediacy in Rosenfeld's circular formats invites us to renew contact with nature first hand. He calls us to do things like take off our shoes and tiptoe over the thick layers of leaves, pebbles and pine-needles seen in several shots.

Some of Rosenfeld's most interesting views are: his wife, round with child, among the redwoods; his 12-year-old daughter, seen from behind, with only her long, blond hair visible; a row of trees disappearing mysteriously in a veil of fog, and a youngster clad in jeans, jersey and Keds circled against a textured, cement wall.

Only rarely are Rosenfeld's contrasts sharply defined as black and white. For the most part they are blended areas of warm or cool grays dwelling on undulating contours of mountainous ridges or silvery and sun-filled entanglements of wild grasses and crusty tree bark.

The show will continue through Nov. 10, and may be seen Tuesday through Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. The Port Art Gallery is located at 393 Miller Avenue.

TENEMENT FIRE — A Montreal fireman probed through the rubble of a tenement block yesterday after striking firefighters returned to work following a two-day strike. Several square blocks in the downtown area were reduced to rubble by unattended fires during the walkout.

Montreal Firemen Back At Work

MONTREAL (UPI) — Striking firemen have returned to work after several city blocks were reduced to rubble during their two-day illegal walkout.

City officials called it the most severe municipal crisis since a police strike in 1969.

Unanswered alarms Friday and Saturday night left several blocks of tenement housing burned to the ground. No deaths or major injuries were reported but over 100 families were homeless.

"It was a miracle no lives were lost," one police official said.

Riot police were called in to protect the supervisors and volunteers. Some 2,400 firemen took part in the walkout.

Firefighters Association Association president Jean L'abbe said yesterday he had reached tentative agreement with municipal and provincial officials on a cost of living bonus and urged the men to return to work immediately.

Detailed terms of the agreement were not released but Mayor Jean Drapeau told reporters the city had offered a $750 cost of living bonus for 1974, which the firemen had demanded.

Two other union demands — the removal of Montreal fire director Rene Plaisance and assurance no union members would be punished as a result of the strike — were not mentioned.

Announcement of the agreement followed 10 hours of talks between Drapeau and L'Abbe at City Hall and a pre-dawn meeting with Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa at his Montreal offices.

State Launches Probe To See If Blue Shield Overcharging

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A new state investigation has been launched to determine whether the Blue Shield health care plan has been overcharging Californians millions of dollars.

Some officials believe Blue Shield should be under tighter control by public regulatory agencies.

The attorney general's office announced last Friday that public hearings will be held on Blue Shield this month in San Francisco and Los Angeles. It said certain aspects of Blue Shield operations need "further explanation."

The probe was touched off by a study of Blue Shield carried out last year by the Department of Insurance. Blue Shield, also called California Physicians Service, serves 1.3 million California subscribers and also administers MediCal, Medicare and other government health plans.

Blue Shield spends more than 25 per cent of its income on administration —much more than Blue Cross or other regulated health insurance companies.

Blue Shield officials maintained such secrecy about the computer contract with EDS Federal Corporation that not even the board of directors was allowed to see it.

In the fiscal year 1972, Blue Shield had a dangerously low financial reserve, which could jeopardize the continued care of subscribers facing long-term illnesses.

A spokesman for Blue Shield said the company was "totally unaware of any necessity for public hearings." He said Blue Shield processes 130,000 claims a day for about 4 four government and private subscribers and that the percentage of disputes was very low.

The study of Blue Shield was carried out by the Insurance Department at the request of the attorney general, who has limited jurisdiction over Blue Shield's operations.

Neither the attorney general's office, nor the Insurance Department, would release the study, which they said was "confidential" because it dealt with Blue Shield's internal bookkeeping.

But Gleeson L. Payne, state insurance commissioner, observed that "the whole matter of regulation of this particular part of the insurance business has been unconscionable. The subject has been swept under the rug."

Payne said his department does not have jurisdiction over Blue Shield and similar companies because of a 1946 court ruling won by Blue Shield which declared that the company was not in the insurance business but was a "service" organization.

Under a state law passed after the 1946 court ruling, Blue Shield is supposed to be regulated by the attorney general. However, the attorney general's office is not authorized to control rates and does not have an adequate staff to handle consumer complaints, according to the insurance commissioner.

Payne, a former insurance company president, said his department handles thousands of complaints against insurance companies —including Blue Cross. It audits their books to see that rates are fair, and can put them out of business if they violate standards.

But, he said, "If you have a complaint against Blue Shield, and they say they are not going to pay it, your only alternative is to take them to court."

"We are building up a great superstructure designed to deliver health care, but it is going to come tumbling down on the heads of the public if these organizations remain free from any effective regulation."

Trustee Proposed For ITT Sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department today proposed that a court-appointed trustee be named to oversee the sale of Levitt and Sons, Inc., a building subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

The Justice Department filed the proposal with the U.S. District Court in Hartford, Conn., with ITT's consent. The department said it would suggest the name of a trustee later.

ITT agreed to sell Levitt, Avis, Inc. and the Hamilton Life Insurance Co. in a consent decree filed Sept. 24, in settlement of an antitrust suit that had been filed against ITT by the Justice Department.

The decree gave ITT the option of selling these three subsidiaries or the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. ITT elected to sell the three smaller subsidiaries. But the department told the court today ITT has sold outright only Hamilton, has sold only 48 per cent of its Avis stock and has not disposed of Levitt.

On Oct. 29 the department proposed the court name a trustee to sell the remaining 52 per cent of ITT's Avis stock. Under this proposal the trustee attempts to sell the remaining stock to ITT shareholders.

Thomas E. Kauper, assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, said the new proposed order would impower a trustee to restructure Levitt, ITT's building subsidiary located in Lake Success, N.Y.

The trustee would have the option of exchanging Levitt stock for ITT stock, or conduct a private sale or make a public offering.

Lecture Set On Fatima Letter

Rev. Denis Philomena, director of Fatima Crusade, will lecture on excerpts from a Fatima letter given to the Pope in 1917 by a Portuguese girl and unopened until 1960, at 8 p.m. Friday in the planning room at the Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael.

According to Roman Catholic Church authorities the Virgin Mary appeared six times to three children in the Portuguese village of Fatima, revealing important messages to them. A part of these messages was given only to the oldest girl, Lucia, with instructions that it be written down and delivered to the Pope. The message was to remain unopned until 1960.

When Pope John XXIII opened the letter in 1960, he did not reveal the contents to the public, according to Cardinal Ottaviani of the Roman Curia. In 1963 portions of the letter were published in a German newspaper. They reportedly reveal predictions of strife and disorder in the world and in the Catholic Church in the second half of this century.

Former Marinite Writes About Life As A Mugger

By PAUL CANE

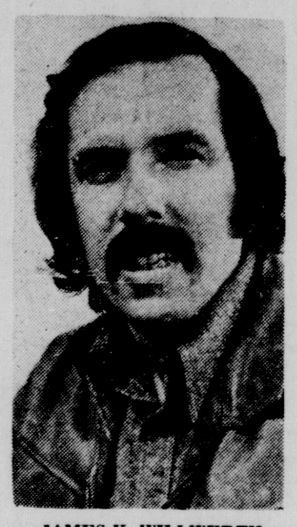

It takes one to know one — and to write about one.

So, to find out what the life of a New York City mugger is really like, former Novato resident James K. Willwerth went into the jungle of a ghetto — not to become a mugger himself, but to spend day and night with one until he knew the business so well that he developed the instincts of a street robber.

The result is a book: "Jones: Portrait of a Mugger."

It's the second book for Willwerth, 31, a graduate of College of Marin and the University of California at Berkeley. A former Independent-Journal reporter, Willwerth is now a New York correspondent for Time Magazine, and a freelance writer. He was in Marin this weekend — visiting his parents, the H. Victor Willwerths of Novato — during a West Coast trip to tape an interview on the Dinah Shore television show, to be aired Dec. 6 on channel 44.

JAMES K. WILLWERTH
Author and reporter

Time, was "a flop" in 1971, he said.)

"I felt out of place, I was frightened," he said about his four-month contact with a mugger who agreed to be watched and interviewed for the book.

"Some of his attitudes rubbed off on me, too. One night — after a seven-hour talk with him — I went to the ballet to get away. When I got to the theater, a man was in my seat. I felt the mugger's hostility in me — instead of politely asking him to leave, I felt like throwing him over the balcony.

"In short", I came to think like him. I was very much into his world."

The adventure began when Willwerth did an interview with a retired, reformed mugger as a sidebar to a Time roundup on organized crime. Out of the article came the idea to take an in-depth look at the problem of street crime — a biography of a "practicing mugger," Willwerth said.

Although he was a general assignment reporter for Time — he has cover stories on Liv Ullman and rock music to his credit — dealing with the world of crime was not unusual for him. Willwerth covered the Attica prison rebellion for the magazine, and has also done stories on other criminal activities.

Through contacts in the ghetto, he met his subject for the story: A 24-year-old mulatto heroin addict and ex-convict from Manhattan's Lower East Side.

Through talking with him, and following the man through his daily routine, Willwerth found out about life in the ghetto: Heroin, sex, heroin, violence, heroin, hate.

He found out almost everything about the man — except his name. Although Willwerth's contacts assured the mugger that the reporter was not a police informant, Willwerth was never told — and never asked — the man's name. The mugger just became known as Jones.

He also never witnessed a mugging. This was for two reasons. "For one thing, I'd be an accessory to a felony if I went with him when he mugged someone. Also, if I saw someone getting mugged, I couldn't just watch. I'd have to try and stop it — call the police."

He met Jones in April, 1973, and talked with him through July. The book was finished in September, and is due to be released this week.

The reader will get two things from the book, Willwerth said.

The first is a thorough understanding of the nature of a mugging. "When I walk into a bank now, I see a guy count through a pile of 10 and 20-dollar bills before leaving, and I think, 'There's an easy score for a mugger,'" Willwerth said. Practical ways to avoid being an easy mark are evident throughout.

The second reason — the reason the book was written — is social commentary on the problems of the ghetto. "Basically, street crime results from poverty. The poor are shoved into the same part of town, they feel cut off from society, so they don't accept the values of society.

"If we're going to have the street criminal stop hurting us, we're going to have to help him. If society doesn't give him a job and counsel him about his problems, he's going to hurt us," he said.

Compounding the problems of tension in the ghetto is heroin, which abounds in the slum. Habits of $300 per day are not uncommon; Willwerth's Jones was mugging to support a $200 per day addiction. Street crime is a direct result of that, he said.

With all the contact he had with addicts, did he ever use heroin?

He shuddered. "No! I wouldn't touch it with a ten-foot pole," he said. "It's like playing with dynamite."

Dreams Studied By Panel In San Anselmo Workshop

By REBECCA LARSEN

"This is a dream I have all the time. I'm in a small room, and I'm trying to phone my husband. There's some kind of crisis, but I can never reach him. Sometimes the phone is broken. Sometimes he's out of town. Sometimes I call his mother or brother, but they can never help me."

With that description, Mary sat back in her chair as if challenging the rest of the group to tell her what the dream meant.

The scene was a workshop on dreams at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo lead by Margaret Frings Keyes of San Francisco, a psychotherapist, psychology professor and Gestalt therapist.

The day's program was titled "The Inward Journey" — the same name given to a recent book she has published.

Before the group of six got into dream analysis, however, there was a brief introduction to Gestalt and Jungian therapy and transactional analysis — the three areas in which Margaret Keyes has been trained.

So the group gathered around a Formica kitchen table and each person took a lump of clay from a plastic bucket. Each was going to sculpt his "family or origin," according to Margaret Keyes.

The idea was to model a clay figurine to represent each member of one's family alive when the person was between the ages of 2 and 8. The figurine was supposed to resemble adjectives which each had written down to describe the family member. For example, a warm, yet critical mother might be a round ball of clay with prickly spikes shooting out of it, said Margaret Keyes.

Each person also wrote down the different kinds of "messages" which family members "sent to him and which he "sent" back. For example, a domineering father might always have been saying to his children through words and deeds: "Be perfect, succeed, work hard."

When all the inartistic grey lumps were on the table, Margaret Keyes picked a guinea pig and began helping him interpret what his shapes meant.

Each person also wrote down the different kinds of "messages" which family members "sent to him and which he "sent" back. For example, a domineering father might always have been saying to his children through words and deeds: "Be perfect, succeed, work hard."

The subject, a minister, had his family clustered around a tiny cradle meant to represent a baby girl who had just been born.

A large fat figure looking like a human brain or heart was the minister's mother. "I made her large and in two sections, because when I was 5 my father died, and she had to take on the jobs of two parents," he said.

An older sister was bent over the cradle like a Madonna. "She's really interested, she wants to know what's going on and wants to help."

His tall, strong father figure was only a vague "ideal," he said, "because I never knew him very well."

"He always seemed to be saying to me 'Life is fun, you will do well.'"

He showed himself as a little boy figure with arms outstretched, turning away from his family to the rest of the world. "I'm not the slightest bit interested in that little baby. I couldn't believe that they could have done that to me. I'm telling the rest of the world, 'Look at me, here I am.'"

As psychotherapist Keyes explored in psychological terms what some of these figures meant, everyone else was trying to relate it to his own family sculpture.

Then it was on to dreams.

The first to come up with a nighttime puzzler was Vicky, in her mid 20s.

A few weeks before, she had dreamed she was in an apartment with her two older sisters when one began acting almost psychotic. Vicky then begged the third sister to call the hospital, to call an ambulance. But the third sister was casual about the incident and didn't seem to care. Vicky picked up the ill sister and began to carry her.

Use of three sisters or three brothers is a common device in ancient myths, psychotherapist Keyes pointed out. And the fact that the youngest was also the heroine also is typical of ancient myths.

As Vicky went into more detail, it came out that in real life, the psychotic dream sister was a domineering person, hard to get along with, irritable — personality characteristics which Vicky had come to dislike in others.

Maybe she was seeing some of those things in her own personality, Margaret Keyes suggested and trying to deal with them subconsciously, as in this dream.

And what about Mary's dream in which she was never able to get hold of her husband?

The obvious suggestion that her husband was never there in real life when she needed him was never brought up.

Instead Margaret Keyes suggested that there was some masculine part of Mary's personality which she had never been able to reconcile with the rest of her thoughts and which she was now trying to get in touch with.

Homicide Suspected In Custodian's Death

Fairfax police today described as homicide the killing of a young Fairfax School District maintenance man found shot to death on Friday, and said they have questioned several suspects in the case.

The body of Bradley Dale Wilson, 22, was found on the bedroom floor of his apartment at 197 Piper Court shortly after 10 p.m., a 12-gauge Remington pump shotgun he owned at his side, according to Sgt. Michael P. Morarity.

Wilson had been shot behind the right ear and in the stomach. "Either blast would have killed him," Morarity said, adding he doubted the wounds were self-inflicted.

The grim discovery was made by Wilson's wife, Sharon, who had last seen her husband alive on Wednesday night shortly before departing after a family quarrel, according to Morarity.

Police said Wilson had been dead from 36 to 48 hours when found Friday night. Neighbors reported hearing "firecrackers" on Wednesday night, police added.

The apartment, one of the three in a triplex structure, was untidy but neither ransacked nor burglarized, according to Morarity.

The Marin County Coroner's office today reported it could release no information on the case.

Wilson, a 1970 graduate of Novato High School, had worked as a custodian for the Fairfax School District since December, 1972. District officials described him as an easy-going, respected employee.

Two Men Are Arrested On Charge Of Assault

A 21-year-old San Rafael woman was struck and slashed with a knife when the men who offered her a ride home from a Fairfax bar early Saturday refused to take her home and instead forced her to accompany them their San Rafael motel.

Police arrested two men, Frankie Lee Drakes, 24, of Cocoa, Fla., and Roy Lee Greenfield, 21, of East Orange, N.J., on suspicion of kidnapping and assault with a deadly weapon. They were booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $5,000 bail, to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

According to San Anselmo police, Sally Ann Drummond asked the two men for a ride home from the Woods bar in Fairfax when it closed at 2 a.m. They agreed, but instead of taking her home, drove to the El Camino Motel, Lincoln and Mission avenues, where they tried to drag her inside, police said.

She tried to break free, but was subdued and repeatedly struck and cut with a knife wielded by one of the men, she said. She managed to escape on a second attempt, and hailed a passing car to take her to a friend's house. She then reported the incident to Fairfax police.

The men were arrested by San Rafael police in their motel room at about 5 a.m.

Landscaper Eyed For Mill Valley

The Mill Valley City Council will discuss hiring a landscape architect to design planting and irrigation for the Miller Avenue improvement project and for median strips on Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue at a meeting today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher has recommended retaining Ralph Alexander of Mill Valley, who also is working on revising parking and landscaping at the city bus depot.

Also today, the council will discuss a recommendation from the city art commission that the city should not get involved in picking artists to exhibit at the fall arts festival. After this fall's fair, some Mill Valley resident artists had complained that festival organizers favored artists from outside the city.

Combat Forces To Be Boosted

BONN (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said today he plans to increase U.S. combat strength in West Germany by two brigades.

Schlesinger said creation of the two brigades would mean no increase in troop strength in West Germany, however, because he intends at the same time to reduce support forces in this country by about 18,000 men.

The changeover will require about two years, the defense secretary told reporters.

"This will substantially increase our combat capability, bringing it back up to the level of 1966, before the withdrawal of two brigades in early 1967," Schlesinger said.

The American outlined his policy to reporters after discussing it with German Defense Minister Georg Leber.

Mrs. Ford Will Not Take Japan Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford, still convalescing from breast cancer surgery, said today she will not accompany the President to Japan late next week.

"Somebody has to mind the store," she told reporters with a smile.

GOP To Pay For Ford's Campaigning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee will pick up the tab for President Ford's traveling and other political activities in the current campaign, an estimated $750,000.

GOP officials said each presidential political trip costs about $4 a mile, including maintenance and refueling of Air Force One, hotel bills and other expenses.

The committee will be charged $2,000 for each hour the presidential jet was in the air.

Ford completed his campaign touring which covered nearly 17,000 miles and 20 states this weekend. The GOP has a $6 million budget and is required by law to pay for the President's political travel and other campaign activities.

White House aides said that even when Ford engaged in some "non-political" appearances, such as attending the conference on domestic and economic problems in Seattle, the committee will pay since the focus of the entire trip was political.

Ford also participated in other activities, besides travel, to support the party, such as posing for photographs with Republican candidates and special mailings to editors.

President Accepts Clawson Resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today accepted the resignation of Ken W. Clawson, a White House press aide under former President Richard M. Nixon.

Clawson's resignation was disclosed prior to an expected shakeup in the White House press office.

Biker Is Hurt In Leap Attempt

An Evel Knievel-type bicycle riding stunt resulted in a concussion and a damaged bike for a 10-year-old youngster Saturday morning, Ross police reported today.

Officers said that Anthony Lucarotti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis O. Lucarotti of 34 Bolinas Avenue, San Anselmo, rode his bike off a ramp children had constructed in the Ross School playground. When he landed, the front fork of the boy's bike collapsed, throwing the youngster to the ground.

Police took him to his parents, who took him to a doctor where he was treated for concussion and extensive scrapes and bruises, officers said.

Police Chief John Harris stressed that in addition to the danger of spills from such bike stunts, the bikes themselves are not constructed to take the heavy impact of jumping.

Drug Decriminalization To Be Topic For Panel

Should the use of narcotics and dangerous drugs be decriminalized?

That's the question facing a panel of persons in drug abuse treatment and law enforcement Saturday at a seminar sponsored by the City of San Anselmo.

The symposium will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the multipurpose room of Isabel Cook School, 1000 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo.

The morning session will be devoted to studying the effects of drug prohibition on society.

After lunch, there will be a panel discussion, with audience participation, of the impact of decriminalization.

Panelists include Judge Joseph G. Wilson, narcotics agent Michael Gilbert, social worker Michael Cowan, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, public defender Harold Truett, San Anselmo police Capt. A. Howenstein, and others.

The seminar was proposed by San Anselmo Councilman Pieter Toal in response to a proposal by Mayor Martin G. Blinder that the city advocate decriminalization of drug use.

Some members of the council have said that they plan to take up that proposal again after the seminar.

Woman Injured In Auto Crash

A Rohnert Park woman was seriously injured at about 2:50 a.m. yesterday when the car in which she was riding crashed into a redwood tree near Cotati on Highway 101 a half-mile south of the West Sierra Avenue exit.

Florine Garcia, 33, of 544 Edith Court, was listed in stable condition today at Memorial Hospital in Santa Rosa. Her husband, Anthony J. Garcia, 35, who was driving, was released after treatment for minor injuries.

The California Highway Patrol said Garcia apparently fell asleep at the wheel while driving north, and his vehicle drifted off the highway. The car was badly damaged, the patrol said.

Ford To Renominate Flanigan As Envoy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite strong Senate opposition, President Ford has decided to renominate former White House aide Peter Flanigan as ambassador to Spain, congressional sources said Moday.

The sources said Ford has informally advised the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of his decision.

Tam High's Publicist Reinstated

Edward J. Neumeier has been reinstated as publicist for the Tamalpais High School district, Supt. Robert D. Torrey said this morning.

Neumeier was relieved of his duties for a week but reinstated Thursday following a conference with Torrey, the superintendent said. Neumeier requested on Oct. 21 to be relieved of "all public information responsibilities" aside from his adult education publicity duties.

Torrey refused further comment. Neumeier was unavailable for comment.

Neumeier was not the topic of discussion at last Monday's closed session of the district board, according to board chairman Bette Wallace.

Trucker Charged In Shooting Of Labor Leader

DETROIT (UPI) — A Detroit truckdriver was charged yesterday with the fatal shooting of Nelson Jack Edwards, the first black vice president of the United Auto Workers Union.

Police said Saul Burnett, 39, was to be arraigned on second degree murder charges today.

Edwards, 57, was elected a UAW vice president in 1970 after rising through the union's ranks as a confidante of the late UAW Walter Reuther. The two men met while working on a Detroit assembly line.

Witnesses told police Edwards was sitting at the bar early Saturday when another man became angry when told it was closing time.

The man started screaming and throwing things, and Edwards and several other bar patrons attempted to subdue him.

The man drew a handgun and fired five shots, one striking Edwards in the head, police said. The gunman also shot himself in the arm.

The Mercedes-Benz 450SL. Spoil yourself.

This is no conventional 2-seater. It's a Mercedes-Benz. So you can expect the extraordinary. You won't be disappointed.

Come in and look carefully at a 450SL. Standard equipment includes electric windows, air conditioning, power-assisted steering and brakes, automatic transmission—even a central locking system.

You have a choice between hardtop, soft top or no top. A 450SL comes in all three configurations—practically three automobiles in one.

The no-gimmick styling is an exercise in function. The crisp lines of the rear deck accommodate your golf bag and enough luggage and gear for a holiday for two with ease.

Pure pleasure

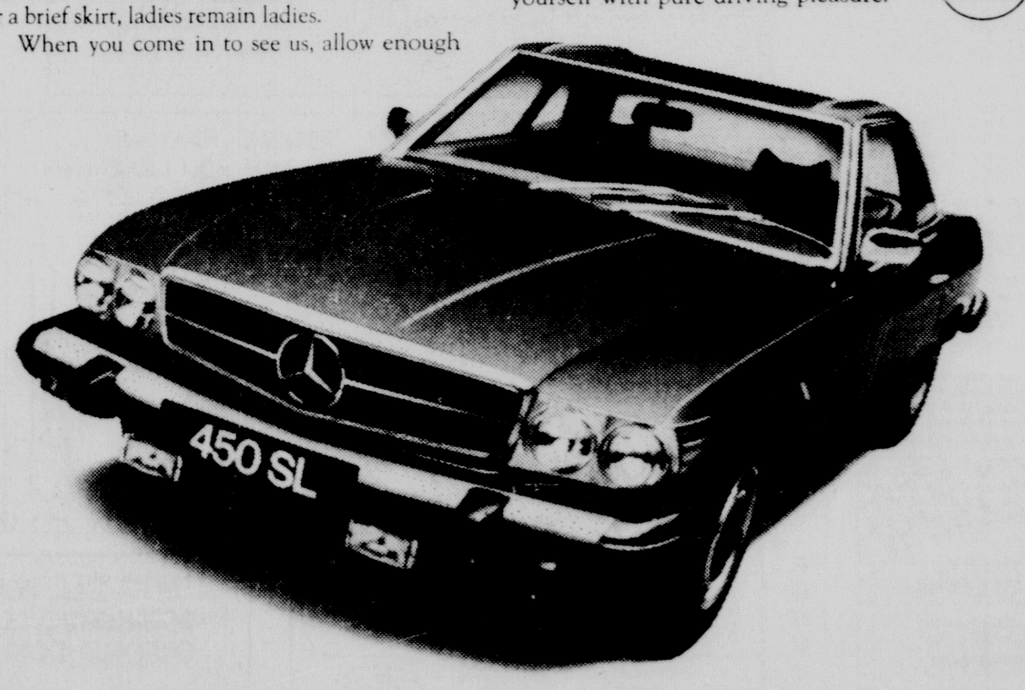

It has been our experience that women who hate cramped sports cars appreciate the ease of entry and exit of a 450SL. Whether in evening dress or a brief skirt, ladies remain ladies.

When you come in to see us, allow enough time for a thorough test drive. Orient yourself in the cockpit. Tailor the height and back angle of a formfitting seat to your body.

When you turn the key you'll know that there isn't another engine in the world like the 4.5-liter, fuel injected, overhead cam V-8 which powers the 450SL. And you'll feel the special 3-speed automatic transmission that was designed to complement it. Shift it through the gears manually or let it do the changing automatically. The choice is yours.

Vets Debate With Ford Over GI Bill

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — "Talk to your soldiers, Mr. President," shouted some two dozen Vietnam veterans. "What about the GI Joes?"

President Ford, delivering a speech Saturday to Utah Republicans, ignored the taunts of the khaki-clad demonstrators, but invited three of the group's leaders to an impromptu debate.

At issue was the pending GI Bill legislation which Ford said he would take no decision on until it clears Congress.

"Don't you have a stand on it?" shouted one vet during the hastily arranged meeting in a tunnel beneath the seats of the Utah University basketball arena.

"Now wait a minute, stop," said Ford. "The point is there are some provisions in there that have to be analyzed.

They have added beyond what Korean and World War II vets got by nine months in entitlement. "That's not exactly true..." began one ex-soldier.

"Yes, it is. It's totally true," said Ford with a wave of his hand.

The new bill, passed by Congress but not yet sent to the White House, would boost GI education benefits an average of 23 per cent, extend eligibility for some benefits an extra nine months and provide loans to some GIs.

During the brief confrontation, Ford told the three veterans that the loan program had to be analyzed because student loans had a "bad repayment record."

In reply, one veteran said, "That's your era. Those are your people that are not paying it back. That's not us."

Ford promised to give fair consideration to the bill when it reached his desk and departed with a round of handshakes.

"He shook our hands three times each, but he didn't give us an answer," said Byron Davis, who debated with Ford along with veterans Craig Pattberg and Steve Hall, all students at the University of Utah.

Water Treading Record Broken

ALFRED, N.Y. (UPI) — Robert Olislagers dived into a pool Saturday and then climbed back out — 35 hours later.

The feat earned the Alfred College sophomore from the Netherlands a new world record for treading water. The current record listed in the Guinness Book of World Records is 32 hours.

Olislagars said he wrote the Guinness editors and followed their rules of not leaving the pool and not touching the sides or bottom of the pool during his session of treading water.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Nov. 4, the 308th day of 1974 with 57 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

American humorist Will Rogers was born Nov. 4, 1879. This is American newscaster Walter Cronkite's 58th birthday.

On this day in history:

In 1952, Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected President, ending 20 years of Democratic administrations. He defeated Adlai Stevenson.

In 1961, the U.S. Army accepted the resignation of Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, previously rebuked for alleged attempts to indoctrinate his troops in Germany with right-wing ideologies.

A thought for the day: Greek writer Sophocles said, "Though a man may be wise, it is no shame for him to live and learn."

Fact That An Opponent Doesn't Ruff Isn't Proof That He Won't

"Don't trust your opponents," warns Edwin Kantar, Los Angeles bridge star. "The fact that an opponent fails to ruff doesn't prove that he can't do it."

Opening lead — ♡ Q

LEAD A DIAMOND

You take the ace of hearts, lead a diamond to the king, return a trump to the ace and lead another diamond to dummy's ace.

The next step is to ruff a diamond with the jack of spades. West discards the seven of clubs. What next?

If you are a trusting soul, you assume that East has the queen of spades. Perhaps you lead a club to the ace to take the trump finesse.

Unfortunately, the finesse loses. The opponents can then take two hearts and a club, defeating the contract. If you reproach West for his craftiness, he will just laugh at you.

PLAY SAFE

You can play safe for the contract after you have ruffed the third round of diamonds. Just return a low trump.

Somebody can take the queen of spades and two heart tricks, but then you can reach dummy with the nine of spades to ruff another diamond and again with the ace of clubs to cash dummy's last diamond.

This line of play costs a trick if the trumps happen to be 2-2, but that trick is worth only 30 points — the value of an overtrick. As the cards lie, the safe play is necessary, and the trick you save is worth 720 points.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - 9 8 4
♥ - 7 6 4
♦ - A K 9 4 2
♣ - A 6.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. You have only 11 points in high cards, plus 1 point for the distribution, but you have 3 quick tricks. It's a crime to pass with so good a hand.

Soviet Nuclear Shot Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union detonated an nuclear device underground last Friday night, the Atomic Energy Commission reported today.

The AEC said seismic signals from the blast were equivalent to those of explosions in the yield range of three to four megatons of TNT.

Spokane Expo Closes On Optimistic Note

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The Expo '74 world's fair closed its six-month run yesterday, apparently a financial success, and work now begins to turn the 55-acre site into a riverfront park.

About 35,000 persons braved near-freezing temperatures to attend yesterday's closing ceremonies, which featured a recorded message from President Ford accompanied by a fireworks display.

In his message, the President issued a challenge to "every man, woman and child" to refrain from waste and extravagance to preserve the land for future generations.

In all, 62,438 visited the fair on its final day bringing the six-month total attendance to 5,187,826.

From all indications, it appeared the fair was a financial success, but the actual profit realized will not be known for a couple of months when a final audit of the Expo books is completed.

However, Expo officials had long considered the five-million total attendance mark as the point at which the fair would break even and begin turning a profit.

As the fair was operated by a nonprofit corporation, any profit will be turned over to the city of Spokane.

Nine foreign nations which participated in the fair along with 46 domestic exhibitors will dismantle their displays over the next 90 days, and the city of Spokane will "winterize" the fair site.

Once that is complete, transformation will begin on turning the site into a $7 million riverfront park—what Expo officials consider the fair's legacy to the city.

The park will comprise basically the smae 55 acres of land in and along the Spokane River as was used for the fair. The land is adjacent to the city's downtown business district.

Some structures used during the fair will remain. The big question mark at this time involves the $11 million U.S. pavilion with its tent-like vinyl canopy. The structure's post Expo use has not been determined, nor whether the canopy can withstand a Spokane winter.

City Park Director William Fearn said about $1 million is currently available to begin landscaping the site. Where the remainder of the needed funds will come from is not yet known.

If present schedules are kept, the park could be open for public use by next summer.

Most Candidates Agree To Airing Of Nominees

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Major candidates for statewide office — with the exception of Edmund Brown Jr. — said they would allow their nominees to the Fair Political Practices Commission to be questioned by the public and the media before their final appointment.

The replies were in response to a questionaire on campaign finance reform sent to candidates by Common Cause.

The Fair Political Practices Commission was created by Proposition 9, the campaign reform measure, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1975.

The commission has five members, two appointed by the governor from the two major political parties and one each appointed by the attorney general, secretary of state and controller.

Not more than three commissioners may be from one party and each will serve four-year terms. The first appointees, however, will serve six-year terms.

"As governor, I would expect all my appointees in the executive branch to be responsive to questions from the public and the press," Brown said in response to the questionnaire. "This will apply to appointees to the Fair Political Practices Commission."

A spokesman in Brown's campaign added, "a public announcement (of a nominee in advance) might not be the appropriate thing to do. It could open it (the nomination) up to various different groups which could attempt to change things. It could be destructive in appointing the appropriate individual to the commission."

Eight of the 12 major party candidates, including Brown, said they would support some kind of public financing of campaigns.

U.S. Fears Depression, Poll Claims

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-five per cent of Americans are afraid the United States is heading toward another 1930s-style depression, according to a Time magazine survey.

The magazine said yesterday that 46 per cent disagreed and 9 per cent were not sure of the 1,023 Americans of voting age queried by telephone early in October.

The magazine said that 33 per cent of the population feel themselves in serious economic distress compared to 28 per cent in a July survey, while 27 per cent are worried about losing their jobs against 25 per cent last July.

Candidate Runs On Peanut Line

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Artist Vincent Trasov, dressed as a peanut, has entered Vancouver's Nov. 20 mayoralty race on the Peanut Party line. His campaign plans include singing and dancing at rallies with Myrna Peanut and the Peanettes.

"I'm sure people are as ready for one nut as they are for the next," Trasov said.

Also on the Vancouver election scene, Jim Land, who lists his occupation as "gentleman," has announced he is running for town fool.

There is no provision for voting for town fool, but Land has urged voters to mark an X on the backs of their ballots to show support for such an office.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

High Blood Pressure Cure Needs More Than Just Drugs

More men and women might have their blood pressure checked regularly if they only realized 1) that people with slight blood pressure elevations prolong their lives when they receive treatment and their tension is stabilized, and 2) that heart attacks and strokes are complications of hypertension. Acceptance of and adherence to these recommendations should be mandatory since heart attacks and strokes usually develop in people with above normal blood pressure levels.

The treatment of high blood pressure requires more than drugs. It often requires a change in lifestyle. By this I mean, adequate rest, regular exercise, weight control, a low-salt diet, no smoking, less stress and anxiety, keeping the cholesterol level normal through whatever other means are necessary.

Changes in life style are less effective than drug therapy when the person is obese, a heavy smoker, has an elevated cholesterol level and is a heavy user of salt.

As a rule, people with ordinary high blood pressure do not have symptoms. They might, however, develop side effects from the drugs used to lower the reading. Physicians adjust drugs and drug dosages to minimize or eliminate side effects, but minor discomforts sometimes are unavoidable.

The drug treatment of hypertension usually begins with one of many different diuretics, which are helpful because they eliminate salt (sodium) from the body. But they also remove potassium, which explains why potassium supplements, including orange or tomato juice, are given along with them. When diuretics fail to lower the pressure, the physician adds one of the rauwolfiz alkaloids, methyldopa or hydralazine.

So much for the medical aspects. The hypertensive should keep regular hours, obtain at least 8 hours of sleep at night and, if possible, take a mid-morning and midafternoon nap.

COLITIS RECOVERY

O. C. writes: If treatment is started at the first sign of trouble, can a person recover completely from colitis?

REPLY

The chances are better when medicines are started early in the course of the disease, but it is only fair to tell you that ulcerated colitis is very resistant to treatment. Since the disorder often is related to stress, cure also involves changing the personality and one's response to tension-producing situations. Needless to say, this is not easily done.

9-6.103. Administration

(a) Application and Scope

The provisions of this section shall apply to all new construction, relocated buildings, and to any alterations, repairs, or reconstruction, except as provided for otherwise in this chapter.

(b) Administrative Authority and Assistants

(c) Assistants

(d) Department Having Jurisdiction

(e) Duties of the Administrative Authority

The Administrative Authority shall maintain public office hours necessary to efficiently administer the provisions of this section and amendments thereto and shall perform the following duties:

(1) Require submission of, examine and check plans and specifications, drawings, descriptions, and/or diagrams necessary to show clearly the character, kind and extent of work covered by applications for a permit and upon approval thereof shall issue the permit applied for.

(2) Keep a permanent, accurate account of all fees for permits issued and other monies collected and received as provided by this chapter, the names of the persons upon whose account the same were paid, the date and amount thereof, together with the location or premises to which they relate.

(3) Administer and enforce the provisions of this chapter in a manner consistent with the intent thereof and shall inspect all plumbing and drainage work authorized by any permit to assure compliance with provisions of this chapter or amendments thereto, approving or condemning said work in whole or in part as conditions require.

(4) Issue upon request a Certificate of Approval for any work approved by him.

(5) Condemn and reject all work done or being done or materials used or being used which do not in all respects comply with the provisions of this chapter and amendments thereto.

(6) Order changes in workmanship and/or materials essential to obtain compliance with all provisions of this chapter.

(7) Investigate any construction or work regulated by this chapter and issue such notices and orders as provided in Sub-section (g).

(9) Transfer all fees collected by him to the proper authority to receive such funds.

(10) Maintain an official register of all persons, firms or corporations lawfully entitled to carry on or engage in the business of plumbing or to labor at the trade of plumbing to whom a Plumber's Certificate of Qualification has been issued.

(f) Right of Entry

The Administrative Authority and Assistants shall carry proper credentials of their respective office, upon exhibition of which they shall have the right of entry, during usual business hours, to inspect any and all buildings and premises in the performance of their duties.

(g) Dangerous and Insanitary Construction

(1) Any portion of a plumbing system found by the Administrative Authority to be insanitary as defined herein is hereby declared to be a nuisance.

(2) Whenever brought to the attention of the department having jurisdiction that any insanitary conditions exist or that any construction or work regulated by this chapter is dangerous, unsafe, insanitary, a nuisance or a menace to life, health or property or otherwise in violation of this chapter, the said department may request an investigation by the Administrative Authority who, upon determining such information to be fact, shall order any person, firm or corporation using or maintaining any such condition or responsible for the use or maintenance thereof to discontinue the use or maintenance thereof or to repair, alter, change, remove or demolish same as he may consider necessary for the proper protection of life, health or property and in the case of any gas piping or gas appliance may order any person, firm or corporation, supplying gas to such piping or appliance to discontinue supplying gas thereto until such piping or appliance is made safe to life, health or property.

Every such order shall be in writing, addressed to the owner, agent or person responsible for the premises in which such condition exists and shall specify the date or time for compliance with such order.

(3) Refusal, failure or neglect to comply with any such notice or order shall be considered a violation of this chapter.

(4) When any plumbing system is maintained in violation of this chapter and in violation of any notice issued pursuant to the provisions of this section of where a nuisance exists in any building or on a lot on which a building is situated, the Administrative Authority shall institute any appropriate action or proceeding in any court of competent jurisdiction to prevent, restrain, correct, or abate the violation or nuisance.

(h) Violations and Penalties

Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this chapter shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. Each separate day or any portion thereof during which any violation of this chapter occurs or continues shall be deemed to constitute a separate offense, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable as herein provided.

The issuance or granting of a permit or approval of plans and specifications shall not be deemed or construed to be a permit for, or an approval of, any violation of any of the provisions of this chapter. No permit presuming to give authority to violate or cancel the provisions of this chapter shall be valid, except insofar as the work or use which it authorized is lawful.

The issuance or granting of a permit or approval of plans shall not prevent the Administrative Authority from thereafter requiring the correction of errors in said plans and specifications or from preventing construction operations being carried on thereunder when in violation of this chapter or of any other ordinance or from revoking any certificate of approval when issued in error.

Every permit issued by the Administrative Authority under the provisions of this chapter shall expire by limitation and become null and void, if the work authorized by such permit is not commenced within sixty (60) days from date of such permit, or if the work authorized by such permit is suspended or abandoned at any time after the work is commenced for a period of one hundred twenty (120) days. Before such work can be recommenced a new permit shall be first obtained so to do, and the fee therefore shall be one-half the amount required for a new permit for such work, provided no changes have been made, or will be made in the original plans and specifications for such work; and provided, further, that such suspension or abandonment has not exceeded one (1) year.

(i) Permit Required

(1) It shall be unlawful for any person to install, remove, alter, repair or replace or cause to be installed, removed, altered, repaired or replaced any plumbing, gas or drainage piping work or any fixture or water heating or treating equipment in a building or premises without first obtaining a permit to do such work from the Administrative Authority.

(2) A separate permit shall be obtained for each building or structure.

(3) No person shall allow any other person to do or cause to be done any work under a permit secured by a Permittee except persons in his employ.

(j) Work Not Requiring Permit

No permit shall be required in the case of any repair work as follows: The stopping of leaks in drains, soil, waste or vent pipe, provided, however, that should any trap, drainpipe, soil, waste or vent pipe be or become defective and it becomes necessary to remove and replace the same with new material in any part or parts, the same shall be considered as such new work and a permit shall be procured and inspection made as hereinbefore provided. No permit shall be required for the clearing of stoppages or the repairing of leaks in pipes, valves or fixtures, when such repairs do not involve or require the replacement or rearrangement of valves, pipes, or fixtures.

(k) To Whom Permits May Be Issued

(1) No permit shall be issued to any person to do or cause to be done any work regulated by this chapter, except to a person holding a valid unexpired and unrevoked Plumbing Contractor's Certificate of Qualification or Registration as required by California State Contractor's Law, except when and as otherwise hereinafter provided in this section.

(2) A permit may be issued to a properly licensed person not acting in violation of any current contractor licensing law.

(3) Any permit required by this chapter may be issued to any person, to do any work regulated by this chapter in a single-family dwelling used exclusively for living purposes, including the usual accessory buildings and quarters in connection with such buildings in the event that any such person is the bona fide owner of any such dwelling and accessory buildings and quarters, and that the same are occupied by said owner, provided, that said owner shall personally purchase all material and shall personally perform all labor in connection therewith.

(l) Application for Permit

Any person legally entitled to apply for and receive a permit shall make such application on forms provided for that purpose. He shall give a description of the character of the work proposed to be done, and the location, ownership, occupancy and use of the premises in connection therewith. The Administrative Authority may require plans, specifications or drawings and such other information as he may deem necessary.

If the Administrative Authority determines that the plans, specifications, drawings, descriptions or information furnished by the applicant is in compliance with this chapter, he shall issue the permit applied for upon payment of the required fee as hereinafter fixed.

(m) Cost of Permit

Every applicant for a permit to do work regulated by this chapter shall state in writing on the application form provided for that purpose, the character of work proposed to be done and the amount and kind in connection therewith, together with such information, pertinent thereto as may be required.

Such applicant shall pay for each permit issued at the time of issuance, a fee in accordance with the following schedule, and at the rate provided for each classification shown herein.

Any person who shall commence any work for which a permit is required by this chapter without first having obtained a permit therefore shall, if subsequently permitted to obtain a permit, pay double the permit fee fixed by this section for such work, provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to emergency work when it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Administrative Authority that such work was urgently necessary and that it was not practical to obtain a permit therefore before the commencement of the work. In all such cases a permit must be obtained as soon as it is practical to do so, and if there be an unreasonable delay in obtaining such permit, a double fee as herein provided shall be charged.

For the purpose of this sub-section a sanitary plumbing outlet on or to which a plumbing fixture or appliance may be set or attached shall be construed to be a fixture. Fees for reconnection and retest of existing plumbing systems in relocated buildings shall be based on the number of plumbing fixtures, gas systems, water heaters, etc., involved.

When interceptor traps or house trailer site traps are installed at the same time as a building sewer on any lot, no sewer permit shall be required for the connection of any such trap to an appropriate inlet fitting provided in the building sewer by the permittee constructing such sewer.

When a permit has been obtained to connect an existing building or existing work to the public sewer or to connect to a new private disposal facility, backfilling or private sewage disposal facilities abandoned consequent to such connection is included in the building sewer permit.

For the construction of new single and multifamily dwellings, the following flat rate fee, which includes the fee for issuance of permit, shall be used: One dollar twenty-five cents ($1.25) per one hundred (100) square feet or fraction thereof of the total living area.

Special Fees

Where more than one re-inspection of any item requiring inspection has to be made because work has not been ready or defects have not been corrected, a fee of $7.50 will be charged for each additional re-inspection and must be made before final approval of the work. Where any special inspection is requested, such as to determine how an existing structure may be made to conform to present code requirements, or otherwise where no current permit is involved, a charge will be made at the rate of $7.50 per hour of the inspector's time, including travel time, with a minimum charge of $5.00.

(n) All Work to be Inspected

All plumbing and drainage systems shall be inspected by the Administrative Authority to insure compliance with all the requirements of this chapter.

(o) Notification

It shall be the duty of the person doing the work authorized by the permit to notify the Administrative Authority orally or in writing, that said work is ready for inspection. Such notification shall be given not less than twenty-four (24) hours before the work is to be inspected.

It shall be the duty of the person doing the work authorized by the permit to make sure that the work will stand the tests prescribed elsewhere in this chapter before giving the above notification.

Faulty Canning Jar Lids Claimed In Complaints

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Complaints are pouring in about home-canned food lost or spoiled because jar lids failed to seal properly.

Most of the angry reports are about lids made by the Kerr Co., although some of the many letter writers complained of lids made by Ball.

Kerr has suggested the problem is one of technique, but most of the writers described themselves as veteran canners and said they never had such trouble before.

Presidential consumer adviser Virginia Knauer has gotten more mail on the lid issue than on the shortage of canning equipment itself, another major problem this fall.

Kerr said the problem is isolated to a few regions of the country — particularly the Pacific Northwest —and caused by failure to tighten the screw ring on top of the jar.

A news release advised canners to "immediately after hot jars are removed from canner, use a cloth or rubber gloves and tighten screwbands again as much as possible manually."

Portrait Mysteriously Appears On Plaster Wall Of Cathedral

My friend the late Nandor Fodor, a noted New York psychoanalyst and ghost hunter, said that one of the most curious of all the curious things he had investigated was the phantom portrait in Oxford's Christ Church Cathedral.

The Very Rev. John Liddell, who was dean of that cathedral in the historic English university city, died in 1898. In 1923, numerous witnesses reported that a startling likeness of the late dean had begun to form on a plaster wall inside the cathedral.

The mysterious image was located near a stone tablet dedicated to the memory of Dean Liddell and his family.

The image wasn't merely a vague stain which a vivid imagination might construe as a likeness of the deceased clergyman. Many people who had known Dean Liddell agreed that the image actually did look like him. It was photographed and compared with pictures of the deceased and the two were found to match.

Over a period of several months, the image grew progressively clearer. Finally it stood out on the wall as fully distinct as a painted portrait. It showed the dean smiling benignly.

A British magazine, Cassell's Weekly, in its issue of Sept. 11, 1926 described the mysterious face on the wall: "It is a faithful and unmistakable likeness of the late dean. Yet it is not etched, neither is it sketched, painted, nor sculptured. But it is there, plain for all eyes to see."

Fodor, who was then living in London, was among the researchers who investigated the strange phenomenon of the unpainted painting. He said that to his knowledge no scientific theory was ever offered to account for the likeness, except for casual speculation that chemical changes in the plaster might be involved. That it was a hoax of some sort apparently was rejected out of hand.

The last time Fodor saw the image was in 1931. The following year, when he returned to Oxford and Christ Church Cathedral, a new altar had been built in front of the wall hiding the inexplicable likeness.

Fodor, a skeptical investigator, confessed to a sneaking suspicion that in some inscrutable way the dead clergyman himself might have had a hand in the business. In his investigations, Fodor discovered that the image had first appeared immediately after a wedding in the cathedral which brought about a reconciliation between two feuding branches of the dean's family.

"It's a poetic thought," mused Fodor, "that in this newly born atmosphere of love, the spirit of Dean Liddell found power to stamp on the wall his smiling face as a seal of approval."

Summoning Houdini Raises Questions

By RICHARD USIAK

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — "Harry, if you're here, please make your presence felt."

It seemed an excellent way to spend Halloween night — covering a seance in which a final attempt would be made to communicate with the spirit of magician-escapist Harry Houdini.

If Houdini was ever to make his "presence felt" it would surely be on this night, 48 years to the day after his death and one century after his birth in 1874.

I arrived at the Houdini Museum in this Canadian resort city and was told I would not observe — I would participate. It was flattering, but it also was tense.

They seated 12 of us at a circular table that was draped with a blue velvet cloth. Psychic medium Anne Fisher, Houdini's old friend and world famous mentalist Joseph Dunninger, magician-escape artist Randi and museum president Harry Muller were there.

There was a 13th chair ... Harry's.

Mrs. Fisher asked us to keep our minds clear and concentrate.

She said she saw Harry and he was happy and seemed very energetic. She asked if any of us felt him running around the table, patting us on the back. I felt nothing.

Dunninger, 82, and in a wheelchair, told Mrs. Fisher, "If you have him on the line, tell him I'll get even with him." Most in the crowded room laughed.

Mrs. Fisher named several other things connected with Houdini's life. She said Houdini's wife, Bessie, was with him.

Those in the room were startled. I was shaking.

I heard a slight pounding from under the table. I glanced at Harry's chair and noticed it was moving, ever so slightly.

Mrs. Fisher abruptly ended the session.

A discussion began about what happened. Some blamed Randi for rigging the flower pot. Others thought it could really have been Houdini's presence.

I'm still skeptical. A trick or the real thing? There has to be an explanation.

Right, Harry?

After Years Apart, Sisters Together

REDWOOD CITY — (UPI) — Two sisters who lived in the same Oregon town for 10 years without knowing they were related are reunited today in Redwood City.

Katy Jackson, 76, and her younger sister Esther Cotton, 56, last remember seeing each other — with the knowledge they were sisters — in Garfield, Utah, in 1928. At that time Katy was 30 and Esther was 10.

In 1961 they both lived in Roseburg, Ore., where their husbands conducted business transactions together. Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Cotton sometimes talked on the telephone, arranging appointments for their husbands. But they didn't know they were sisters.

Ten years later Katy moved to Salem, Ore. She suffered a heart attack last December and moved here to live with her daughter.

Recently a brother of the two women died and someone in the family sent a newspaper clipping of the obituary to Katy, who was surprised to find that one of the survivors listed was Mrs. Esther Cotton of Roseburg.

Two weeks ago Katy telephoned Esther and said, "Hi, baby sister."

Reunited in Redwood City, they talked about their 10 years in Roseburg and decided they must have seen each other on the street and in a supermarket where they both shopped.

Training Division Helps In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — In the past eight years, 41,000 Virginiahs have been trained for skilled jobs in 270 companies in the state, by the Special Training Division of the Virginia Department of Community Colleges.

There is no charge to the trainees and almost none to the company that hires them provided it hires a minimum of 18. The state picks up most of the tab, according to the Virginia Division of Industrial Development.

Two More Banks Match Prime Lending Rate Dip

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, the nation's fifth largest commercial bank, and First National Bank of Chicago, No. 8, today matched the industry-low prime lending rate of 10.75 per cent.

National Bank of Detroit and National City Bank of Cleveland reduced their prime rates to 11 per cent from 11.25 per cent.

This is the fourth consecutive week that cutbacks in the key lending rate have been announced by major banks due to declines in other short-term money rates which banks average to determine their prime rates.

Novato Wins More Than City Crown From San Marin Gridders

League Title To Hornets

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The Novato Hornets, playing their kind of football, won both the Battle of Novato and the Marin County Athletic League championship Saturday with a methodical, 19-0 victory over the San Marin Mustangs.

Beneath crystal autumn skies and before some 3,000 fans at Novato High, the unbeaten Hornets rolled to their fifth win of the year and saddled their crosstown rivals with their first loss. Combined with Tamalpais' 18-15 upset of Terra Linda, the victory gave Novato the MCAL title with two weeks left in the season. (Other Novato picture and high school football stories on page 32.)

It was the fifth straight year in which Novato has beaten San Marin for the city championship, after the Mustangs won the inaugural game in 1969. Last year, it was 10-0 in the rain.

The sun shone brilliantly Saturday, but the brightest thing in northern Marin that afternoon was Novato quarterback Mike Moroski. Throwing even more precisely than in last week's 20-7 victory over San Rafael, he deftly carried out the Hornets game plan, a mixture of timely running with inexorable passing.

The 6-3, 175-pound senior hit on 13 of 17 passes for 234 yards. In the third quarter he hit a super hot streak in which he completed seven of eight for 155 yards and two touchdowns.

Mark Reagan spearheaded the Novato ground game with 68 yards, almost all of them in the first half when the Hornets controlled the ball for 17 of 24 minutes and took a 6-0 lead.

While Moroski, Hoog and Reagan carried out the game plan on offense, the Novato defense succeeded in its task of stopping San Marin's powerful running game. Bob Bennett and Wayne Roche, the league's leading rushers, gained just 58 and 59 yards. And when the Mustangs were forced to play catch up and therefore went to the air, Fred Conte led a charge that sacked quarterback Dave Harder four times.

The tone and quality of the game were established at the outset; the first time they got the ball, the Hornets drove 98 yards to score. Moroski was four for four along the way, and Reagan got the touchdown on a veering, 14-yard run around left end.

San Marin came back with a march from their own 12 to the Novato 21, but Hoog, also a defensive back, intercepted Harder on the 15.

Novato's third quarter touchdown drives were for 67 yards in eight plays and 84 yards in six plays. Wide receiver Mike Leach caught a 14-yard pass to end the first march and a 56-yard bomb, a thing of beauty, to highlight the second.

Twice in the fourth quarter San Marin approached the Novato goal line, only to be rudely stopped. The Mustangs mounted a drive from their own 27 that carried to the 24, but could gain no yardage in four plays from that point.

With time running out the only fumble of the game gave San Marin the ball on the 10. Three runs and a pass yielded just six yards, and the clock ran out.

Raiders' QB Stabler Is Red-Hot In Denver Snow

'Good Day To Throw,' Says Oakland Star

DENVER (UPI) — Ken Stabler played in the snow for the first time in his life yesterday and had a ball.

The five-year veteran from Alabama hit 12 of 19 passes for 217 yards and four touchdowns, despite a steady snow and temperatures around the 32- degree mark, to lead Oakland to a 28-17 win over the Denver Broncos and the Raiders' seventh straight National Football League win since a season-opening loss.

"Actually a day like this, when the field is wet, is a good day to throw," said Stabler, who, like his teammates, was a snowball target of the restless Denver fans. "As long as the ball is dry you are in command because the footing is so bad the receiver has the advantage over the defender."

Stabler gave Oakland a 21-7 halftime lead, hitting 10 of 14 passes for 148 yards in the first two quarters and throwing 23 and 19 yards to Fred Biletnikoff for first-half scores, sandwiched around a nine-yard touchdown pass to Cliff Branch.

And when Oakland, now 3½ games ahead of Denver in the American Football Conference West, needed a third quarter lift after Denver cut the lead to 21-17, Stabler sent Branch on a fly pattern for a 61-yard touchdown bomb.

Denver got on the scoreboard for the first time after Oakland had taken a 14-0 lead when Charley Johnson threw a swing pass to Otis Armstrong, who raced 48 yards from the line of scrimmage down the right sideline for the score.

And the Broncos cut the Raiders margin to 21-17 in the third quarter on a 27-yard Jim Turner field goal and 73-yard touchdown pass from Johnson to Bill Van Heusen.

"When we got that score I felt we had it won," said a disappointed Bronco Coach John Ralston, whose playoff hopes disappeared with the win. "But we were just plain beaten by a better team."

2 Quarterbacks Under Scrutiny

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pro football television fans around the nation get a good look tonight at two promising young quarterbacks — James Harris and Tom Owen—when the Los Angeles Rams meet the San Francisco 49ers in the National Football League's Game of the Week.

The 27-year-old Harris has been around for five pro seasons but he is finally getting his chance now as a regular with the Rams after the trading away of veteran John Hadl.

Owen, a rookie from the University of Wichita, made his first pro start last week and looked good even though the 49ers bowed to the Oakland Raiders in the final quarter. Because of that performance, plus a fine second half coming off the bench against the same Rams the week before, Ower is getting another chance tonight.

If Harris can't cut it or is injured, then the Rams will have to dip down to Ron Jaworski, a second year man with no playing time to speak of. The 49ers, on the other hand, can go to the veteran Norm Snead, picked up a week ago from the New York Giants, if Owen has problems or suffers injury.

The Rams come into the game with a 5-2 record and a three game lead over Atlanta, New Orleans and San Francisco in the National Football Conference West. They are favored by 14 points with the action getting under way at 6 p.m. PST before a near capacity crowd of around 60,000 in Candlestick Park.

The Rams have won their last eight starts against San Francisco, including a 37-14 decision at Los Angeles two weeks ago. Over a longer stretch, they are 12-1-1 in their last 14 starts with the 49ers.

Working against the Rams, though, is the Monday night "jinx" which has seen the home team win every time this season. But coach Chuck Knox discounts that streak as somuch coincidence. He also doesn't feel his club's superiority over the 49ers over recent years means anything.

The 49ers, of course, are going nowhere this season but would consider it a success of sorts if they could wind up second in their division race. Having lost five in a row after opening the season with victories over New Orleans and Atlanta, there isn't even a wild card berth to think about.

While the Rams come into tonight's game in relatively good shape, the 49ers will be playing without star defensive back Mel Phillips and durable offensive guard Woody Peoples, missing his first game since becoming a pro seven years ago.

Phillips suffered a broken arm and Peoples a sprained ankle in last week's game with Oakland. Windlan Hall takes over for Phillips and Randy Beisler for Peoples.

Rookie running back Wilbur Jackson, who has churned out 453 yards in 86 carriers, will start even though he has a slight knee sprain, also suffered in the Oakland game.

No Television

Because the game was not sold out 72 hours before gametime, tonight's contest between the 49ers and Rams will not be televised in the Bay Area.

NO LAUGHING MATTER — Golden State Warriors' Butch Beard last night dribbled past smiling Trail Blazers' defender John Johnson. Warrior Rick Barry (behind Johnson) raced down court. The National Basketball Association game was played in Portland.

Aaron Wants To Be More Than Brewers' Designated Hitter

Despite his constant insistence throughout most of the 1974 season that he would be retiring, baseball's home run champion will play again in 1975.

There is a difference however. After 21 years in the National League with the Milwaukee-Atlanta Braves, Aaron is switching to the American League where he is expected to be a designated hitter.

The Braves traded Aaron to the Milwaukee Brewers Saturday with Aaron's blessing. The 40-year-old outfielder, slugger of 733 major league home runs, had said at season's end that he might play again next year and indicated he wanted to return to Milwaukee, where he played for 12 seasons.

The Braves got Dave May, an All-Star outfielder in '73 who had an off season in '74, and a top farm hand to be picked later, in exchange for their $200,000-a-year outfielder, who had made it clear he would not play in Atlanta next season "under any circumstances."

Aaron indicated, from Tokyo where he is spending five days, that he wants to be more than a "designated hitter" with the Brewers.

"I will have to talk with (Brewers manager and former teammate Del) Crandall," said Aaron. "I will probably phone him when I get to Honolulu (Wednesday). I do not want to be relegated to being a designated hitter. I want to play on

SKORICH TO REMAIN AS COACH

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Nick Skorich will remain head coach of the Cleveland Browns this season with owner Art Modell conceding, "We're out of it," it was reported today.

Modell, according to the Cleveland Press, spoke of 1974 as being a rebuilding year during the team's flight home after yesterday's frustrating 36-35 loss at San Diego, leaving them 2-6 for the year.

"We're rebuilding now. Maybe try some new things, a few of the younger players," Modell said.

"There will be no new coach this season. Maybe there will never be a new one, I don't know," Modell said. "You reach a point where there's the natives to satisfy, to take the heat off. But I'm not going to do that."

BUCKS, BLAZERS BELTED

Good Weekend For Warriors

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A bad start by Portland and 41 points from Golden State's Rick Barry gave the Warriors a 109-100 victory over the Blazers in National Basketball Association play last night. The Warriors had won their fifth straight Saturday by downing Milwaukee, 99-90.

"Our defense coupled with Portland's poor shooting and bad ball handling got them in a hole," said Barry, whose 14 points in the first period contributed to Portland's 39-26 deficit.

But the Warriors outscored Portland 18-6, getting eight points from Keith Wilkes and six from Charles Johnson.

"The two key factors when Portland started to close the gap was Charles and Keith in the second period, and Keith hitting those big jumpers and George Johnson doing a good job against Bill Walton on the boards in the final period," said Barry.

Trailing 63-44 in the third quarter, the Blazers rallied, cutting Golden State's lead to seven points, 77-70, on buckets by Geoff Petrie and John Johnson. But Barry scored 15 points in that quarter.

Portland fought back again in the last period, inching to within six points at 100-96 with 2:21 left on the clock. But they couldn't catch up.

"We'd get down to five or six points and had the ball each time," said Portland coach Lenny Wilkens. "Every time we took the wrong shot — a long one from outside — instead of trying to set something up."

Wilkes, a rookie from UCLA, scored 25 points for Golden State, which won its sixth straight game for a 7-2 record in the Pacific Division. Butch Beard added 18 and Charles Johnson had 16.

Tam Shocks Terra Linda

By RON LENT

"It's your ballgame. They went down to the one and couldn't put it in. It's all yours."

That prophetic statement was uttered by Tamalpais High School football coach Jess Racines after his Indians made what proved to be a crucial goal line stand in the first quarter. Some 600 fans enjoyed a successful Indian homecoming in Mill Valley Saturday as Tam stunned Terra Linda, 18-15.

For Terra Linda (2-2 in the Marin County Athletic League), the defeat dashed title dreams. As for feisty Tam (1-2-1), victory meant heart palpitations and vocal celebrations; the triumph did not come easily.

Tam led 18-9 with 0:15 left to play when Terra Linda, which had blocked three punts in previous games, did it again and recovered in the end zone for a touchdown.

At this juncture, Racines was frantically pacing the sidelines; he knew an onside kick was forthcoming. What made it worse, the Trojans recovered. Quarterback Brian Wark promptly completed a 10-yard pass to wide receiver Dave Sanderson. The football was on the Tam 31 with 10 seconds l[illegible]

Meanwhile, the Tam fa[illegible] were chanting "dee-fense, d[illegible] fense." The Indian defend[illegible]s heeded the call by knock[illegible]y down a long Wark aerial, [illegible]e Michael Lamb intercepte[illegible] a desperation heave at the gun.

To recap the scoring, the blue-clad Indians recovered a fumble on the Terra Linda 31 early in the first quarter. Tam ran it over in five plays with Kevin Murphy barreling up the middle the final four yards.

Terra Linda responded by marching 70 yards before being stopped at the Tam one. Key play in the Trojans' drive was a 58-yard run by Dick Labarthe. The goal line stand deprived Terra Linda of a touchdown that would have made the difference in the final score.

The Trojans received some consolation seconds later when a high snap sailed over punter Murphy's head and into the end zone. The safety narrowed Terra Linda's deficit to 6-2 after the first period.

Tam quickly retaliated with some trickery. Quarterback Ken Praszker lateraled the ball to running back Murphy. Murphy then threw to a wide-open Rick Lapora for the touchdown. The 27-yard play came with only 34 seconds left before intermission.

The underdog Indians cushioned their lead to 18-9 in the third quarter when tackle Dan Morgan intercepted a Wark pass and lumbered 15 yards across the goal line.

This set the stage for the exciting final minute when Terra Linda almost snatched the win.

San Rafael Trims Marin 'Cats

San Rafael High School's defense produced two safeties, and quarterback Dave Steele threw a pass for the winning points Saturday in an 18-13, non-league football victory over Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

The Bulldogs of the Marin County Athletic League held the stubborn Wildcats to minus 19 yards rushing and tackled halfback Ed Ugarte and quarterback Bob Yetter in the end zone for safeties in the second and third quarter. But it took a 23-yard pass from Steele to Mike McGrath early in the fourth quarter to seal the win.

San Rafael made its overall record 4-2-1 overall, Marin Catholic dropped to 3-5.

Yetter and Ugarte atoned for being safety victims when they combined on a 69-yard touchdown pass in the closing minutes of the game. That capped a good afternoon's work for Ugarte, who suffered a concussion the previous Saturday and had not practiced all week.

The teams traded touchdowns in the second quarter to make it 9-7, Bulldogs at halftime. San Rafael's Mark Meredith ran back the kickoff following the first safety 65 yards to score, and then the Wildcats came back with a touchdown on a big defensive play of their own. Greg Bullian blocked a San Rafael punt, and Steve Rupiper scooped it up and went 45 yards to score.

Rick Wright led all rushers with 96 yards as San Rafael gained 138 on the ground and 82 in theair. Steele was five for 18 with no interceptions. Yetter hit on six of 18 for 93 yards, but he was intercepted three times. Fred Hurst had two of them.

Nowell Heroics Not Enough

I-J Special Report

SAN PABLO — Quarterback Tim Nowell capped a sensational night's work with a pair of fourth quarter touchdown passes, but the College of Marin Tars fell just short of an upset of Contra Costa in a Camino Norte Conference football game Saturday.

Contra Costa won, 23-21.

Nowel, getting good protection from constant pressure, hit fleet receiver Jackie Robinson with scoring strikes of 19 and 30 yards, the second with just 1:12 to play. Between those touchdowns, however, Contra Costa's George Mahley kicked a 20-yard field goal that provided the winning margin.

On the night, Nowell completed 17 of 21 passes for 223 yards and the two touchdowns. The Tars outgained the Comets in total yardage, 357 to 337, but all they got for the heroic effort was their sixth loss in seven games. Contra Costa is 5-1-1.

"It was our best effort of the year, and we deserved to win," said Marin coach Dick Read. "A couple of calls hurt us, but we still came back."

One of the officiating calls Read was referring to came when the Tars were called for interference on a long pass thrown by Comet quarterback Eric Sjoberg. That put the ball on the Marin 19 yard line, and two plays later, Sjoberg found Ron Robinson in the end zone for the first touchdown of the game. The Tars complained that Robinson was out of bounds when he made the catch, but the decision held.

Marin came back to within a point at 7-6 early in the second half when Steve D'Ambra scored on a 16-yard dash. D'Ambra led the Tars with 80 yards in 15 carries.

Contra Costa made it 20-6 later in the third quarter on a 3-yard run by Chauncey George and a 46-yard pass from Sjoberg to Brad Qualls. George had a good game rushing, with 132 yards in 20 carries.

Redwood Is Edged, 10-7

By DAVID DEL GRANDE

The Drake and Redwood High School football teams both got 1974 Marin County Athletic League firsts Saturday, but the Pirates were the happy ones after the game.

The score was tied 7-7 with only four minutes left when Pirate Kent Hauge blocked a Giant punt and Claude Theophile ran it back 25 yards to Redwood's 30. From there, Drake moved down to the Giant two, only to have a potential touchdown called back by a holding penalty. But on a fourth down and 20, Dittman made the field goal.

Redwood (0-4-1) didn't fold though. Following Bill Cole's kickoff return to the Giant 40, quarterback Mark Chapman passed Redwood quickly downfield. After completions off nine and 23 yards to Cole and junior Chuck Hall, and a 10-yard run by Jamie Waste, Redwood had a first and goal at the Pirate 10. There were 15 seconds left. But then defensive back Dennis Colteaux ended Giant hopes by intercepting a pass.

After 17½ quarters of being shutout, Redwood produced its first 1974 league points midway through the second quarter. Bill Peters passed 18 yards to Hall for the touchdown. On the previous play, Pete Bann and Rip Hunter recovered a Drake fumble.

Drake quarterback Terry Fahey sparked a 62-yard scoring drive at the start of the third quarter. Running back Dave Egan blasted over from the one on fourth down. Dittman's extra point tied it at 7-7, setting the scene for the game-winning field goal.

Rancho Gridders Bombed

By DIANE FISHER

Mark O'Hair, Cardinal Newman High School's outstanding quarterback, proved to be too much for Rancho Cotate Saturday. The Cardinals dashed the Cougars Sonoma County League football title hopes, 25-8, at Rancho Cotate.

The Cougars, second in the league in defense, successfully controlled the Cardinals' ground game, but were helpless against the powerful passing attack of Cardinal Newman (5-0).

O'Hair threw three touchdown passes.

Tony Lopez caught a 58-yarder in the first quarter, Bernard Proctor grabbed a 60-yarder in the second quarter, and Jerry Robinson corraled one in the third quarter for 24 yards.

Casa Grande Overpowers Sonoma, 12-0

Casa Grande High School's size and power were the deciding factors Saturday night on Durst Field. The Gauchos blanked Sonoma 12-0 in Sonoma County League football.

Casa Grande (4-1 in league) had 40 players compared to the Dragons' 21, as well as a strong defensive line that shut off every Sonoma threat.

Both Gaucho touchdowns came in the first half. Dan Lutz scampered four yards in the first quarter for a touchdown. Then Jim Bricker tossed a 24-yard touchdown pass to Tom Davini in the second quarter.

Cardinals Worried After First Defeat To Dallas

Not In Driver's Seat Now

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

No one, not even the star-struck St. Louis Cardinals, can hope to outwit Father Time forever.

As a result, when the clock finally ran out on the Cardinals yesterday, they found themselves unceremoniously dumped from the most exclusive club in the National Football League and back to worrying about their future.

The Cardinals were the only one of the 26 teams to go through the first half of the season with a perfect record, and they did so by pulling out five of their seven victories in the final minute of play.

Yesterday, though, St. Louis got its comeuppance when Efren Herrera of Dallas kicked a 20- yard field goal with four seconds left to give the Cowboys a sweet 17-14 victory.

The loss reduced St. Louis' first-place lead in the National Football Conference East to two games over the Washington Redskins, who whipped the Green Bay Packers, 17-6, and gave Cardinal Coach Don Coryell cause for concern.

"It may appear to some that we are still in the driver's seat," he said. "But I don't feel that way. It's nice to be on top but when you consider that six of our eight games have been decided in the closing minute or two, you can see what I mean."

Dallas, now riding a three-game winning streak following the disastrous slump, evened its record at 4-4 and is tied for third place in the NFC East with the Philadelphia Eagles, who dropped a discouraging 27-0 decision to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

With the loss by St. Louis, the Oakland Raiders now own the most secure position in the National Football League, boosting their record to 7-1 with 28-17 triumph yesterday over Denver. Oakland is the only team in the American Football Conference West with a winning record and owns a 3 1-2 game lead over the runnerup Broncos.

In yesterday' most significant game, Buffalo moved into undisputed possession of first place in the AFC East by overcoming the New England Patriots, 29-28. The Bills, with a 7-1 record, now hold a tenuous one-game lead over both New England and the Miami Dolphins, who ripped the Atlanta Falcons, 42-7.

Redskins 17 Packers 6

A rock-hard defense shut Green Bay out in the second half and Billy Kilmer, subbing for the injured Sonny Jurgensen, pulled Washington from behind with a 22-yard touchdown pass to Frank Grant midway through the third quarter.

Steelers 27 Eagles 0

Philadelphia went into the game with the lowest point yield in the NFL—86—but the Steelers rushed for 238 yards and gained another 146 in the air. The Pittsburgh defense set up three scores, including a 52-yard return of an interception by cornerback Mel Blount for a touchdown.

Bills 29 Patriots 28

John Leypoldt's third field goal of the game, a 47-yarder early in the fourth quarter, provided the margin of victory for Buffalo. The Bills then saved the game by blocking a late field goal attempt by John Smith. Mack Herron scored three touchdowns for New England, two on passes of 43 and 25 yards from Jim Plunkett and the other on a two-yard run.

Dolphins 42 Falcons 7

Substitute runners Bennie Malone and Don Nottingham led the Dolphins to their highest point total of the season while dealing Atlanta its sixth loss in eight games. Nottingham scored three touchdowns on short plunges and Malone surpassed 100 yards for the second consecutive week.

Vikings 17 Bears 0

Lions 19 Saints 14

Defensive cornerback Levi Johnson ran 78 yards with a missed field goal attempt to give Detroit a 16-0 lead in the second quarter, and the Lions then held on in a driving rain to even its season record at 4-4.

Giants 33 Chiefs 27

Craig Morton threw touchdown passes of seven yards to Walker Gillette and 51 yards to Joe Dawkins, but the clock played as decisive a role in helping the Giants to snap a four-game losing streak. Kansas City had the ball on the New York one when the final gun sounded.

Bengals 24 Colts 14

Ken Anderson three two touchdown passes to Isaac Curtis and one to Essex Johnson as Cincinnati gave Coach Paul Brown his 200th regular season victory.

Chargers 36 Browns 35

Oilers 27 Jets 22

O.J. ON TACKLE — Buffalo Bills' running back O.J. Simpson yesterday took an elbow to the head while tackling New England Patriots' Ron Bolton who had just intercepted a second-quarter pass. The National Football League game was played in Foxboro, Mass. (UPI Telephoto)

the field so I can make a full contribution to the team."

Aaron had origionally planned to retire to the Braves' front office, but was dissatisfied with the Braves' offer of a "token" public relations post. It has been reported that he may become general manager of the Brewers when he actually retires as a player.

One of the hitches to Aaron taking a front office job with the Braves was a $200,000-ayear contract he has with a television manufacturing company.

"I had a good career with the Braves," said Aaron. "I'm only happy someone would see fit to use me in more ways."

Ex-Seals' Official Young Eighth Coach Of St. Louis

Combined AP & UPI

ST. LOUIS — Garry Young, a veteran National Hockey League coach, general manager and scout, has become the eighth coach of the St. Louis Blues in their eight-year existence.

Young, the sixth St. Louis coach in the last four years, succeeds Lou Angotti, who resigned as Blues coach Wednesday. Lynn Patrick, the Blues' senior vice president, had coached the last two games, including Saturday night's 9-0 win over the Atlanta Flames.

Young was director of operations for the California Golden Seals until he was succeeded shortly before the beginning of this season by Bill McCreary, a former Blues coach. He also has served as coach and general manager of the Seals and as a chief scout of the Boston Bruins.

St. Vincent Clinches Tie For Grid Title

It looks like St. Vincent High School will win its first North Central League II football title. The Mustangs clinched at least a tie for the championship by defeating Tomales, 12-8, Saturday on Durst Field.

In the fourth quarter, Bill Vyenielo plunged over from the one for the other Mustang score.

Tomales' lone touchdown came late in the fourth quarter when John Riley threw six yards to Rob Miller and then ran for the two-point conversion.

'New Lease On Life' For Mac McLendon

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — For Mac McLendon, never a winner, it was a "new lease on life."

For his partner, Hubert Green, it was a membership in an exclusive club of pro golfers who have won more than $200,000 in one year.

The two friends from boyhood, billing themselves as the "Birmingham Bombers, wound up the 1974 Professional Golfers Association tour yesterday in the winner's circle, victors by one stroke in the $250,000 national team championship at Walt Disney World.

"It's an ecstatic feeling," said McLendon, who helped his more-famous teammate post a 33-under-par 255 in four rounds of best-ball competition. "It gives me a new lease on life."

Among other things, the Montgomery native will be exempt from the tiresome qualification rounds on next year's tour and probably will get an invitation to the Masters.

Green, with earlier victories this year in the Bob Hope, Jacksonville and Philadelphia tournaments, reached a career high of $211,709, to nose out Lee Trevino for third place on the PGA's money list.

The duo, with a 64 in the final round on Disney's 7,165-yard Magnolia course, finished one stroke ahead of Sam Snead and his nephew, J. C., third thirround leaders, Bert Yancey and Ed Sneed.

Stanford Is Looking Forward To USC Tilt

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Stanford football team, headed for extinction as recently as a month ago, is alive and well and bristling with confidence over its big showdown Saturday with Southern California.

"This is the game we've been pointing for all season long," said frisky running back Ron Inge Saturday after his 127 yards in 20 carries had helped set up two touchdowns by runningmate Scott Laidlaw and a field goal by Mike Langford.

Stanford, with Inge and Laidlaw grinding out 209 yards between them, had just enough offense to beat Oregon State, 17-13, last Saturday —a victory that gained the Cardinals a share of first place with USC in the Pacific 8 Conference race, each at 3-0-1.

Southern Cal was a whopping 20 point favorite to whip California but when all was said and done, the Golden Bears had held the mighty Trojans to a 15-15 standoff.

Southern Cal had all sorts of problems moving the ball on California last Saturday and quarterback Pat Haden, while sharp in spots, wasn't all that consistent. Stanford quarterback Mike Cordova didn't have a good day, either, against Oregon State.

California, though, was disappointed it didn't beat USC.

McKay agreed with White.

"Cal did a fine job and deserved the victory," he said. "We should feel lucky we got out of that mess with a tie."

Washington, a late blooming team, made coach Jim Owens look good in slapping down UCLA, 31-9, to run its Pac 8 record to 2-2. But the Huskies are 1 ½ games behind USC and Stanford, and a half game in back of Cal and UCLA. Owens had said earlier his team was a title contender and shouldn't be overlooked.

In last Saturday's other Pac 8 game, Washington State scored three times in the second quarter and then held on for a 21-16 victory over Oregon. It was the Cougars' first league victory while Oregon now is winless in four starts.

While Stanford and USC are bucking heads this week, UCLA hosts Oregon, Cal plays at Washington and Oregon State is at Washington State.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, San Diego State hosts Pacific in the key game. An Aztecs victory would wrap up the league title while if the Tigers pull an upset, they can tie for the championship with identical 3-1 records.

San Diego State lost to North Texas State last Saturday, 14-9, and is 5-2 overall, while Pacific beat Texas-Arlington and is 5-4.

In the other games, Fresno State whipped Northridge State, 41-0, San Jose State defeated Utah, 24-6, Long Beach State walloped Southern Illinois, 32-7, and Fullerton State lost to Cal Poly Pomona, 31-25. San Jose goes to Hawaii this week, Long Beach goes to Fresno and Fullerton is idle.

Trout Stocking

Phoenix, Bon Tempe and Lagunitas reservoirs and Stafford Lake are Marin County waters scheduled to be stocked with rainbow trout during this month, it was announced yesterday by the Department of Fish and Game.

THE CRUCIAL QUESTION: WHAT IS THE FUTURE OF OUR WATER MORATORIUM?

I am the only candidate in our Water Board race who will uphold the moratorium until we have an adequate, in county water supply.

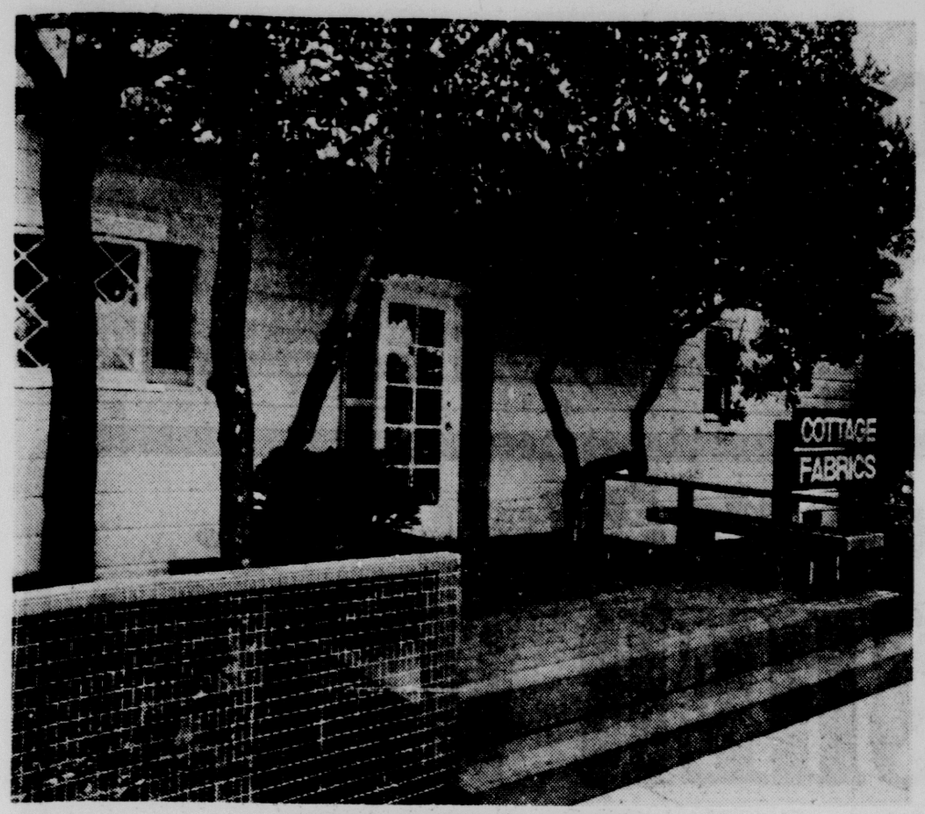

When the moratorium can safely be lifted, I believe we must tie our water allocations to the countywide master plan and work to support that plan.

We endorse Richard Boylan for Water Board:

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Having His Cake — And Eating It, Too

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I have a paper loss which I would like to take in order to offset a capital gain realized earlier this year. Yet, I hate to sell the stock because I think it will come back. How do I have my cake and eat it too, so to speak? — J.P.

A. If you want to establish the loss but like the issue for its investment potential, you can do what is referred to as "doubling up." This simply means buying an equal amount of stock in the same company and selling the original holding. However, you msut take care to avoid a "wash sale." The rule on this is that the replacement must be bought at least 30 days before selling the original, or no earlier than 30 days after. You can sell the stock to establish your loss any time up through Dec. 31. But you must purchase the replacement no later than Nov. 29 if you want the loss to qualify this year. Or you may wait for 30 days after the sale to "double up."

Q. After 21 years of teaching I managed to save $15,000, which I invested in Washington Mutual Investors. I reinvested all dividends and capital gains, which didn't amount to much. It is so low now I fear total collapse. What should I do? — R.M.

A. First of all, I would stop worrying. Washington is a high-quality and conservatively managed mutual fund. Net asset value increased 100 per cent in the 10-year period ended 1973, compared with an 80 per cent gain in the Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Average. From a September, 1974, low, net asset value has rebounded 12 per cent, reflecting the fund's blue chip-quality portfolio. At current NAV, income dividends yield 6.2 per cent, while an additional 8 cents a share was distributed in capital gains. Hold.

Property Owners Relocate

Marin Property Owners Association opened its new offices this month at 110 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, in the Marin Builders Exchange building.

Niels Schultz, president of the board of directors of MPO, announced the appointment of Nathan E. Jones of Tiburon as executive director to replace the late Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera. Marin Property Owners Association was formerly located at 818 Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

"In the coming months," said Schultz, "we propose to redouble our efforts to work constructively with governmental bodies to preserve the rights and interests of the property owner, and to ensure that regulations to conserve natural beauty and enhance the quality of life in Marin are fair and reasonable."

Schultz said the association will continue to support all state and local efforts to bring about property tax reforms, encourage economy and efficiency in government, and continue to function as a responsible voice of the property owners of Marin.

Volkswagen Cuts Cost Of Thing

CULVER CITY — At a time when the price of most everything is going up, the price of the Volkswagen Thing has gone down.

The new suggested retail list price for the four-door multipurpose vehicle is $2,800, a reduction of $375. The price of The Acapulco Thing, which features a striped top and no side curtains, has been reduced by $275 and also carries the $2,800 sticker price.

Designed for sportsmen and others who want a versatile, rugged go-anywhere machine, The Thing is produced in VW's Mexican plant for world markets.

Home Buyers To Get Pest Control Report

California Assembly Bill No. 3629, which provides that buyers of real estate must receive a copy of the structural pest control inspection made prior to transfer of title, has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan and becomes operative July 1, 1975.

The new law marks the culmination of almost two years of effort by Pest Control Operators of California, Inc., a non-profit trade association, to gain increased protection for home buyers and other purchasers of real estate. The California Real Estate Association cooperated in this overall effort.

Middle East Peace Prospects Said Dim

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Middle East, European and Communist diplomats in a rare concensus today voiced deep pessimism over the prospects of securing peace between Arabs and Israelis.

Western and military experts were openly assessing the chances of a new Middle East war.

In Beirut, the pro-guerrilla newspaper Al Moharrer said Palestinian guerrilla factions and refugee camps throughout Lebanon went on "maximum alter" because of intelligence reports that Israel intends to launch a military attack in the first half of this month.

Another warning of possible war came from Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestinian Liberation Organization. In an interview with Time Magazine correspondent Wilton Wynn at the Arab summit conference in Rabat last week he said there was a high probability of war within six months and that it probably would start with a preemptive attack on Syria by Israel.

He predicted a catastrophe unless the United Nations brings pressure on Israeli.

In Fulton, Mo., Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the United States should not support continued Israeli occupation of Old Jerusalem and the Palestinian West Bank and that "Israel's supporters in the United States ... are encouraging Israel on a course which must lead toward her destruction and just possibly ours as well."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in a carefully calculated statement in Belgrade, told the Arab and Israeli governments today that they must make an effort "to bring their positions closer to each other" in the interests of achieving a Middle East peace settlement.

After talks with President Tito of Yugoslavia, Kissinger also pledged that "the United States would like to do its best to prevent a stalemate from developing" following the hardline decisions of the Arab summit conference in Rabat.

Kissinger told newsmen that his forthcoming Middle East peaceseeking mission "requires that all of the parties on both sides understand the special necessities of each other and make an effort to bring their positions closer to each other."

UPI diplomatic correspondent K.C. Thaler, reporting on the grim diplomatic assessment in European capitals, said Communist diplomats plainly warned that short of swift sweeping territorial concessions by the Israelis a new Middle East war seemed a definite possibility.

The concensus of qualified diplomats and expert commentators on the eve of Kissinger's new round of Middle East peace soundings was that without a rapid breakthrough in the current diplomatic maze a war could in fact become inevirable, Thaler reported.

Both sides in the conflict were authoritatively reported to be rearming with unconcealed determination to be ready for a showdown, in which new weapons and improved methods would play a decisive role. The Israeli newspaper Ma'ariv reported today Russia had resumed arms shipments to Syria.

The Israeli military command said today four men accused of helping Arab guerrillas inside Israel have been deported to Lebanon. One of the four was the editor of the East Jerusalem pro-Palestinian newspaper Al Sha'ab, Ali Mahmoud al Hatib.

In a speech to a visiting British United Jewish Appeal delegation at an air force base last night, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said the recent Arab summit conference in Rabat confirmed Israel's suspicion about Arab intentions.

"The Rabat conference makes clear what we in Israel have known for many years," Rabin said, "that the Arab intentions are to destroy Israel."

At their meeting last week, Arab states charged the Palestine Liberation Organization with setting up a Palestinian state on any land in the Jordan West Bank given up by Israel.

"Israel rejects the Rabat decisions," Rabin said. "I believe Israel is strong enough to decide its own future without taking into consideration Rabat or the General Assembly of the United Nations."

The U.N. General Assembly voted last month to invite the PLO to take part in this month's debate on the Palestinian problem.

Soviet Sugar Order Could Boost Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Russia ordered up to 500,000 tons of sugar in the open world market today, posing the threat of another rise in the global price, sugar trade circles said.

"The Soviet move indicates the Russian sugar beet crop is shorter than expected and that Cuba cannot supply Russia's additional needs," said a spokesman for B.W. Dyer & Co., sugar economists and brokers.

The Cuban crop also has been reported as short.

The meteoric rise in sugar prices this year has angered housewives and upset many American businesses heavily dependent on sugar. The average retail price has jumped from 18 cents in January to around 52 cents. But the average is deceptive. Those who buy sugar in one-pound packages may pay 65 cents while the housewife who buys the five-pound bag pays only 47 to 48 cents a pound. The popular two-pound package was selling at 57 to 59 cents a pound in New York and New Jersey supermarkets today.

Ironically, the retail price of 47 cents a pound for the five-pound bag of refined sugar is below the 47 ½ cents a pound spot price for raw sugar quoted Friday. The sugar presently on store shelves came from refiners who bought raw sugar months ago at much lower prices.

Treasury Secretary William Simon said last week he was ordering an inquiry into the sugar price rise, especially into the spread between the price of raw sugar and refined sugar.

Although this spread may have increased this year, it is the smallest factor in the overall rise in the price. On Jan. 2, raw sugar was selling at 11.56 cents a pound and refined sugar at an average retail price of 18 cents—a spread of less than 7 cents.

The refiners' own margin at that time was less than a penny a pound, the Dyer spokesman said. The huge increase has been in the price of raw sugar.

With raw sugar now at 47 ½ cents, it is hard to tell exactly what the gap between that and the price of refined sugar is because both markets are so chaotic, the Dyer spokesmsn added.

"The cause of the rise in sugar prices is primarily the increase in world demand coming from some of the newly prosperous Arab countries and from the European countries like Russia that have had poor sugar harvests," he said.

"You are a dedicated and unique group. You range in age from 6 to 81. There is not a paid, or professional among you. Our youngest had to be the best stamp lickers, and brochure folders in the world. The many hours that you have contributed, have made it possible to establish a truly grassroots campaign. You have worked hard to elect A. Alan Hill to the state assembly because you know him to be an honest man . . . and I thank you."
